BULGARS MOW DOWN 11,000 SERBS FROM AN ARMY OF 15,000

All of the 4,000 Survivors of Big Battle Near Sofia Are Taken Prisoners, According to Vienna Newspaper

SERVIAN MINISTER DENIES BULGARIANS WON

Says It Is Not Certain Army Reported Crushed Was in Fight—Greeks Drive Bulgars Across River Struma

(By Associated Press.)

VIENNA, July 7.—Eleven thousand officers and men of the Servian Timek division were killed in the battle with Bulgarians, according to the Sofia correspondent of the Reichpost. The division consisted of 15,000 men, who were surrounded by a Bulgarian army which had outflanked them. Only 4,000 of the Servians survived and these were taken prisoners.

According to other newspaper reports, a Bulgarian column of 14,000 men has succeeded in reaching the Servian town of Vranya and is threatening the line of retreat of the Servian army. The Bulgarians presumably pushed forward from Egri Palanka.

Mobilization of the Rumanian army will be completed by Thursday or Friday, according to Bucharest dispatches. The Rumanian troops are expected to cross the Danube inao Bulgaria immediately, and it is assumed that Bulgaria will be compelled either to agree to the Rumanian demands and permit Rumania to occupy the territory she desires or to engage in war.

Timok Division Was Not Crushed, Vows Minister

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 7.—The Servian minister here denies the defeat of the Timok division of the Servian army and says that yesterday it recaptured the town of Krivolak from the Bulgarians. According to other reports, however, it is not certain that the Timok division was engaged in that operation.

Greeks Push Bulgars Back Toward Seresos

(By Associated Press.)

SALONIKI, July 7.—Part of the Greek right wing has driven the Bulgarians across the River Struma and now is marching on the town of Seres, according to an official report from Greek headquarters.

Greeks Are Dispersed In Surprise Attack

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 7.—A dispatch from Sofia to the Central News says official messages received from the front report the occupation of Nigrita, west of Lake Tahynos, by Bulgarians who also have captured other important strategical positions from the Greeks. General Ivanoff, Bulgarian commander, by a surprise attack, dispersed a large part of the Greek army of 30,000 men under personal command of King Constantine.

Newspaper Men Will Be Allowed to Go to Front

(By Associated Press.)

BELGRADE, Servia, July 7.—A number of war correspondents have left for the Servian headquarters at Uskup. The commander of the Service troops announces that the newspaper men will be allowed to go to the front.

Paid $1,000 Interest On $280 and Still Owes the Principal

In drawing a suit for injunction filed with the superior court Monday morning, Attorney Lawton Nally sought the aid of Shakespeare and of the Bible.

The plaintiff in the action was James Lee, a clerk, and the defendants were a number of money lenders, termed "sharks" in the petition to restrain them from bringing suit or garnisheeing the salary of the plaintiff.

Lee alleges that he has borrowed approximately $280 from Atlanta money lenders and that he has paid them on the loans more than $1,000 interest and that the principal is still unpaid.

Excessive and usurious interest has been paid," the victim alleges in the suit, "but in Shylock style the defendants demand the pound of flesh despite the fact that under the bond not a drop of blood can be spilled, and despite the fact that the surgical operation which they demand, cannot be performed under the code of this state."

The suit further states that "these money sharks are going to swallow the plaintiff's money and his position and the hope of securing another position as the whale swallowed Jonah, unless this court comes to his rescue."

Judge Ellis signed an order temporarily restraining, as proved, the defendant money lenders, who are, R. D. Mason & Co., A. R. King, King Bros. & Co., Thomas Reed, D. A. Quarles and Emory Quarles and S. A. Ryan & Coo.

Hurrah! and Hooray! Cooler Weather's Here

Cooler weather is the immediate official prospect for Atlanta.

During the coming week, said Section Director von Herrmann Monday, the temperature by day in Atlanta will be lower than for some time past and the nights will be delightful. Cooling breezes from the north will get in their good work, says he.

Sunday's maximum was reached about 2 o'clock, when the mercury climbed to 94 degrees. An hour later there came a perceptible change. Early Monday morning the temperature was down around 70 degrees.

IS ATTACK BEING PLANNED ON CITY SMOKE ORDINANCE?

President Harwell, of Smoke Board, Says He Is Informed Apartment House Owners Will Try to Get Exemption

SOME ARE DOING THEIR BEST TO OBEY THE LAW

But Others, He Says, Instead of Changing Furnaces to Suit the Law, Want Law Changed to Suit Furnaces

E. M. Harwell president of the city smoke board, declares that some of the owners of apartment houses in Atlanta appear determined not to make any effort to comply with the smoke law, and that he is informed they are planning an attempt to get the law amended so as to exempt apartment houses.

For them to succeed, he declares, would mean the serious crippling of the smoke law, for he says the apartment houses make nearly as much smoke as the office buildings, or the manufacturing plants, or the railroads.

"The smoke board when it began the campaign against smoke last fall decided to allow the aparement house owners more time and considerable leeway," said Inspector Harwell. "This was done because most of the apartment houses have low pressure boilers, and in order to come within the smoke limit the boilers and furnaces will have to be changed or altered. These alterations could not be made during the winter months, so the board agreed to give the owners until summer before requiring them to begin to get ready to comply with the law.

"Some of the apartment house owners srower the right spirit by coming forward as soon as they shut down their boilers and offering to do whatever the smoke inspector recommended.

"But some others have not been so public spirited. They have not cooperated with the inspector, they seem to object to making any alterations, and I am reliably informed that they are planning an attempt to get the law amended.

"There is no more reason to excuse the apartment houses than to excuse the office buildings, the manufacturing plants or the railroads. The apartment houses make a great deal of smoke as anyone living near one of them will testify, and as the smoke inspector's observations show.

"If the owners could see the proposition in the right light, they would realize that it is to their interest to comply with the smoke law. Less smoke means less fuel consumption and less damage and disfigurement to the building by smoke and soot.

"Inspector Poole is gradually eliminating the smoke nuisance. He is working out from the center, a zone at a time, and after a while he will get the whole city covered. Already he has cleaned up the mile zone.

BOY DROWNS IN POND NEAR CENTER HILL

Newsboy, Said to Be Nat Jones, Is Drowned While in Swimming

It was reported from several sources Monday afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock that a boy had been drowned in a creek or a pond near the old power station on the river car line near Casey station.

The boy's name was said to be Nat Jones, and he was said to have been a newsboy in Atlanta. The report was that while in bathing in the pond or creek with several other boys, he sank and was drowned. Later, it is said, his body was recovered.

County Policeman C. C. Heard, called to the scene, took Jesse Tarrant, of 3 High street with him, and together they recovered the body. The body had been in the water forty minutes, it was said. Efforts to resuscitate him were without avail.

Nat Jones was twelve years old. His parents live on the Mayson and Turner Ferry road, near Mayson's church.

BOY HOBO KILLED UNDER FREIGHT TRAIN'S WHEELS

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 7.—Albert Williams, aged fifteen, an employe of a cotton mill, was ground to pieces by a Central of Georgia freight train while stealing a ride this morning north of the city. He had quit the mills and evidently intending going to another town as a hobo. The body was fearfully mangled. Both legs and arms were found in different places.

SUFFRAGETTES ARE AGAIN REFUSED USE OF GEORGIA SENATE

Effort to Take From Table Resolution Asking Use of Hall Lost by Two Votes, Suffs Appeal to House

STRINGENT DIVORCE LAWS ADVOCATED IN NEW BILL

Senator Bush Declares Georgia Is Becoming Notorious for Easy Manner in Which Divorces Are Obtained

An effort to repeal the action of the state senate in refusing to grant the use of the chamber to local suffragists on July 9 and 10 for a rally was made when the senate reconvened at 11 o'clock Monday morning after a three days' adjournment.

Senator W. D. McNeil, of the twenty-second district, proposed that the resolution tabled last week, which proposed to grant the suffragists the hall, be taken off the table and voted on again. The senator said that when this resolution was introduced that he and many of his contemporaries voted under a misapprehension, thinking that the suffragists wished to address the senate instead of merely wanting to use the hall for a meeting. He characterized it as "a resolution which we have no right to deny."

When the question was called as to whether the senate should take the resolution off the table Senator McNeil's proposal was defeated by vote of 17 to 15.

ASK USE OF HOUSE.

Denied the use of the senate chamber for their deliberations, July 9 and 10, the Georgia Woman's Suffrage association, headed by rMs. M. L. McLendon, president, and Mis Kate Koch, corresponding secretary, has addressed a communication to the house of representatives, making a similar request for the house chamber.

The second paragraph of the letter says:

"This body is composed of law-abiding men and women representing that class of decent, self-respecting people who constitute the good citizenry of Georgia."

In accordance with the request, Mr. Smith, of Fulton, introduced a resolution in the house Monday morning, asking that the request be granted.

The senators held but a short session Monday, adjourning at noon after but two bills had been introduced. Among these was a bill introduced in the house a few days ago by its youngest member, Representative Grover Edmondson, asking that the disabilities preventing W. B. Kent, of Alamo, Ga., from practicing law be removed. It was considered a coincidence that the same bill was introduced in the senate by its youngest member, Senator Fred Kea, of the Sixteenth district. Senator Kea says that inasmuch as since his disbarment from parctice two years ago Mr. Kent has twice represented Montgomery county in the legislature and has been elected ordinary of the new county of Wheeler, that he should be given another chance.

WOULD CHANGE DIVORCE LAWS.

That a total divorce should be granted in this state only on statutory grounds is the purpose of a bill introduced by Senator W. J. Bush, of the Eighth district. The senator says that Georgia is becoming notorious for its right-and-left granting of divorces, and declares that a state should follow the teachings of the Bible.

The bill introduced by Senator McNeil, of the Twenty-second, provides for kindergartens in connection with the common school system of Georgia. The bill says that pupils in these kindergartens must be over four-years-old and that all teachers must have had two years of training in a professional school. The bill leaves it optional with the cities and counties whether the kindergartens shall be installed.

MEDICAL BILL INTRODUCED.

A companion bill to one introduced in the house last week by Representative S. F. Garlington, of Richmond, was offered by Senator J. T. Longino, of the Thirty-sixth. It provides for a composite board of only two eclectic and one homeopathic physicians who shall pass upon the merits of all men and women who wish to practice medicine in Georgia. The bill is designed to raise both the professional and moral standard of the medical people of the state.

Senators Huie and Anderson introduced a bill increasing the senatorial districts from forty-four to sixty by constitutional amendment. By its provisions several of the districts which include large cities in their borders and have a large proportion of counties as well will be changed so that these counties will be districts unto themselves.

Immediately preceding adjournment, the senate concurred in the action of the house which passed a resolution accepting an invitation to visit Augusta on July 16.

SHE LOVES HER PONY BETTER THAN DOLLS

When The Journal's photographer happened along the other day and asked little Florence to let him take her picture with her doll, she declined. "I'd lots rather play with Cupid," said she, "than with any little old dolls." Cupid proved to be her pony, a stanch friend and constant companion. Accordingly Cupid and she posed for their photograph together.

HOUSE WANTS ADDRESS BY SENATOR HOKE SMITH

Invitation to Visit Augusta Accepted and Report of Suffragettes' Request Asked

That the house as a body, perhaps with the senate accompanying it, shall go to Augusta on July 16 and look over the state medical college there that is a part of the state university system; that the committee on privileges of the floor shall investigate and report upon a resolution extending to Georgia women interested in suffrage the use of the house for their meetings at night, and that Senator Hoke Smith be invited to address the house during his approaching visit to Atlanta—these three things were discussed by the house of representatives of the Georgia legislature Monday morning.

The Richmond delegation, Representatives Garlington, Olive and Picquet, extended an invitation to the house to go to Augusta on July 16 as the guests of that city and inspect the state medical college. On motion of Representative Brinson, of Jenkins, the invitation was accepted, the day being declared a legislative day. Therefore the house, though in Augusta that day, will be constructively in session in Atlanta.

Judge Enoch Callaway C. E. Dunbar, a former representative; Daniel G. Fogarty, Dr. Henry Michel and W. S. Morris, a former state senator, all citizens of Augusta, composed the delegation which brought that city's invitation to Atlanta Monday. A special train will be provided for the trip; the program will include inspection of the college and its grounds, barbecue, speeches and a ride around Augusta, and all expenses will be paid by Augustans.

Representative Smith, of Fulton, introduced the resolution, as anticipated in the papers several days ago, to extend to the Georgia women interested in suffrage the use of the hall at night for the meetings of the Georgia Woman's Suffrage association, which will convene soon in Atlanta. This resolution will be acted upon Tuesday.

Representative Miller of Bibb introduced the resolution inviting Senator Hoke Smith to address the house when he visits Atlanta. This was adopted unanimously by the house.

A resolution carrying an appropriation, which was overlooked last summer when the legislature reorganized the state insurance department, was passed by the house of representatives Monday morning. The resolution appropriates $1,800 to pay the salary of the insurance clerk whose position was created in the reorganiaztion, but whose stipend was overlooked.

An unfavorable report on the Wheatley resolution requesting that courtesy seats be granted Leo H. Browning, of Bleckley, and Douglas McArthur, of Wheeler, representatives from the two newly created counties, was returned

FULTON COUNTY'S DIVORCE MILL STARTS BI-MONTHLY GRIND WITH BIG ARRAY OF UNIQUE PETITIONS

Glenn-Pidcock Case One of First to Come Up—Over 100 Petitions to Be Disposed of—Ben Hill County Woman Says Her Husband Told Her Atlanta Was Easiest Place to Get Her Freedom—"Other Woman" in One Case Declared "Pretty as a Pink Pup"

With a record number of 135 cases on the calendar Fulton county's divorce mill was started on its bimonthly grind Monday morning, with Judge George L. Bell of the superior court presiding.

The present "mill" is noticeable largely for the reason that a record number of cases is on the calendar. Usually there are only from 80 to 90 cases to be disposed of each term, but this time the number is well passed the hundred mark.

One of the most widely known cases on the calendar is the suit of Mrs. Effie L. Glenn for divorce from Luther J. Glenn. The Glenns a few months ago were considerably in the limelight when the husband was arrested in Texas with Mrs. Ione Pidcock, wife of a south Georgia millionaire railroad president, and brought here to face charges of deserting his minor children. Mrs. Glenn names Mrs. Pidcock in her suit. Glenn is not defending the suit, which will probably be reached on Tuesday.

One of the most interesting cases heard Monday morning was the suit of Mrs. Pauline H. Crawley against C. E. Crawley. The parties are residents of Ben Hill county, but the suit was filed here and heard by deposition, neither party appearing in court.

Mrs. Crawley's deposition was re*markable for the picturesque language* accredited to her husband, and for his implied opinion of Atlanta and the courts here.

Her husband, she alleged, advised her "to go to H—— and get a divorce," but not to sue him for alimony.

DIVORCE IN ATLANTA "EASY."

In a sentence, which she accredited to her husband in the same interview, Mrs. Crawley says that he told her to get her divorce in Atlanta, as that was the easiest place to get one.

Her husband also told her that he would kill her, she said, if she named a certain woman in the suit whom her husband said was as "pretty as a pink pup." She often found endearing letters from this and other women in her husband's pocket, she said. Besides all this he treated her cruelly, she said, and once threatened to use a buggy whip on her eighteen-year-old daughter. She got her decree.

Mrs. Marie Stevens was one of the first wives to get a decree Monday. She said that she married L. N. Stevens when only seventeen years old, and almost from the first, she said, he treated her coldly and cruelly. To her mother-in-law she attributed a part of their troubles, declaring that every time her husband had a kind or affectionate word to say that the mother-in-law "butted in" and induced him to return to his usual cold and cruel manner towards her.

FREEDOM IN ONE MINUTE.

The case of James H. Gray against Mrs. Saidie F. Gray was interesting for the fact that it took the plaintiff exactly one minute by the big clock in the court room to tell his story, and have he papers giving him marital freedom signed by the foreman of the jury. The suit was brought on the ground of desertion, and quickly and fersely he stated the time of the marriage, the date o fthe desertion, and the fact that the desertion has continued for more than three years. The court directed the verdict.

One of the prettiest of the array of near-divorcees in the court was Mrs. C. P. McKerell, who got her first verdict against William Bruce McKerell. The young wife, who held a two-year-old daughter in her arms while she told her story, said that her husband would often leave her alone in their lonely little home five miles out on the Peachtree road. Despite the fact she was in bad health, she said, he forced her to do the heavy house work. Although he knew that she was lonely and frightened in the house at night by herself, she alleged, that he was or jealous of her that he wouldn't allow a telephone to be put in the place for fear she would use it for a flirtation. She got her decree.

YOUNG WOMAN TELLS STARTLING STORY OF VICE FROM "INSIDE"

Confessions to Chief of Police Beavers Involve Downtown Hotel, Mention Names of Other Women and Men

IMMEDIATE PROBE OF HER CHARGES ORDERED

Police Again Arrest Mrs. Frierson, Recently Pardoned by Mayor Woodward in Controversy With Judge Broyles

Revelations of vice conditions from the inside were laid before Chief of Police Beavers Monday morning by the confession of a young woman who gives her name as Hattie Smith and says *that her parents live at a certain num*ber on Marietta street.

Chief Beavers immediately detailed men to investigate the disclosures, and the indications were that several arrests would follow and that a case would be made against at least one downtown hotel and perhaps against two.

The young woman, who says that she is seventeen years old, told the chief a story replete with startling admissions and placed in his hands the evidence which, if it is corroborated, will convict several people of serious charges.

She had been arrested in a downtown hotel with a man. Her companion was released upon a small bond, being cited to appear in court with her Monday afternoon.

The young woman admitted a joyriding career during several months past, leading up finally to the day recently when with the aid of another woman more experienced than herself she established a residence in one of the downtown hotels. Her admissions involved that hotel and others, and involved, too, several men whom she named. The other woman arranged the details of her hotel reandance, said she, registered her on the hotel registry, and otherwise encouraged her.

The charge against her on the police docket is "disorderly conduct."

The police believe that her arrest and confession together form one of the most important chapters in the crusade against vice in Atlanta.

OTHER ARRESTS MADE.

Other arrests by members of the vice squad were made at 3 o'clock Sunday morning in a raid at 168 South Boulevard—the residence of a woman who gives her name as Mrs. William Jones. The householder was arrested, together with Mrs. T. R. Frierson, as she is known to the police, and C. N. Hughes who gives his address as 630 East Fair street.

Mrs. Frierson is the woman over whose incarceration in the stockade for disorderly conduct Mayor Woodward and Recorder Broyles found themselves at issue recently. Mayor Woodward pardoned her. Her lawyers worked vigorously that his client was passing through the city on her way from a visit to a brother in Rome, back to her husband in Jacksonville. She wanted to go on and rejoin her husband, said the lawyer. She was released by the recorder's order, but remained in Atlanta.

Rev. Hugh Wallace, pastor of the Jones Avenue Baptist church, called at police headquarters early Monday afternoon and gave to the chief of police the names of a store and a sanitarium on Adair avenue, which he, improper conduct has been noticed.

Accused Policemen Will Face Commission Tuesday

The entire board of twelve police commissioners, including the mayor and the chairman of the police committee of council as ex-officio members, is expected to be in attendance Tuesday evening at the trial of the eight policemen recently suspended by Chief J. L. Beavers.

Chairman Carlos Hanson, who has missed only one meeting during his five years' service on the board, returned Monday from a vacation especially to attend the trial, and all other members are expected to be there.

The eight suspended policemen are involved in the police scandal revolving around the raiding of a blind tiger, disorderly house and dance hall, operated at 127 Auburn avenue by a negress by the name of Ola Bradley.

The majority of the suspended policemen have engaged attorneys to defend them before the police commissioners, and lively scenes during the trials are expected.

As the evidence against most of the policemen is largely of the same character and will be delivered by the same witness, it is expected that all of the eight trials will be completed at the meeting Tuesday evening.

OLD CAT AND MOUSE LAW BREAKS UP MILITANCY

Only a Few of Former Army of Suffs Left to Lead--Contributions Dwindle

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 7.—The "cat and mouse law" has broken up organized militancy among suffragettes, according to the Daily Mail. The law requires that when a suffragette who has been sentenced to prison falls ill through a hunger strike, she shall be released only long enough to recover her strength, then shall be returned to jail.

The Mail, which opposed the law when it was first proposed, gives it the credit of having broken up militant conspiracy. The law now requires that when a suffragettes who has been sentenced to prison falls ill through a hunger strike, she shall be released only long enough to recover her strength and then be returned to jail to continue her sentence.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, who is recovering from her latest hunger strike, is not likely to be arrested again, it is said, unless she tries to participate in a militant campaign.

She already has been returned three times to Holloway jail in connection with her last sentence.

The Mail, claiming to have made a special inquiry into the status of militancy, declares that the organization is reduced to a few disabled leaders with their former army of followers scattered and the organization crippled financially. Subscriptions to the militant cause have been greatly checked by the official warning that subscribers are liable to prosecution. Sporadic suffragette crimes are attributed to a few isolated fanatics.

Suffragettes' Next Parade Will Be in Automobiles

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Plans for the descent of woman suffragists on the capitol were agreed upon today when officers of the National Woman Suffrage association determined that the "attack" on the national legislature would be marked by a monster automobile parade. Suffragists from many states expect to take part. The women will gather at Hyattsville, Md., on the morning of July 26. A reception will be held there by the local committee, and, after forming in procession, the long line of motor cars will charge upon Capitol Hill.

The demonstration is for the purpose of demanding that congress pass a resolution leaving to the country the question of a constitutional amendment granting suffrage to women.

Preparations are being made for the entertainment of the visiting women. Principal among the events aranged is a banquet at the Chevy Chase club on the evening of the first day.

TWO NEGROES LYNCHED FOR CRIMES IN FLORIDA

Affairs Occurred Near Pensacola and Jacksonville, Sheriff Killed

(By Associated Press.)

PENSACOLA, Fla., July 7.—For a criminal assault near Bonifay, Fla., an unknown negro was lynched at Milton, twenty miles east of here, early this morning. Late yesterday the negro was captured.

After lodging the prisoner in jails of two different counties, the sheriff attempted to reach Pensacola by train. The train was stopped at Milton, 100 miles from the scene of the crime.

Slayer of Sheriff Is Lynched Near Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 7.—Sheriff R. S. Cherry, of Clay county, Florida, adjoining this, Duval county, was shot and killed yesterday by Roscoe Smith, a negro, who subsequently was lynched.

SOCIETY ORGANIZED TO FIGHT MALARIA

(By Associated Press.)

NORFOLK, Va., July 7.—With the formation of Virginia society for the study and prevention of malaria the first step in a nation-wide fight against malaria, was begun. The society received notice today that a charter for which it applied would be issued Monday.

Dr. William B. Driver, of this city, president of the society, left today for Washington for a conference with Dr. Craig relative to beginning a campaign to stamp out malaria.

The Virginia society will ask the next legislature of furnish free quinine for the treatment of those suffering from malaria.

JOSEPHUS DANIELS INSPECTS HIS PAPER

(By Associated Press.)

RALEIGH, N. C., July 7.—Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels left here for Washington Sunday, after a visit of two days on matters connected with his newspaper, the News and Observer. On July 1, with Mrs. Daniels he starts for the west on a tour of inspection of the naval stations on the Pacific coast.

ARE THESE FIVE ALL ACCIDENTS

A. M. Kendall, shoe dealer of Colorado City, Colo., seventy years of age, was in what appeared to be the final clutches of Bright's. The treatment was changed and in three months he wrote that he considered himself well.

He has a neighbor, a grocer, J. J. Abensham, sixty-eight years of age, who had Bright's Disease. "The best doctors he could get, told him there was no help for him and advised him to settle up his accounts." Kendall told him about his own case and Abensham too recovered. In giving us these facts Kendall closes: "There are three others here who have been cured since I was."

One of the above recoveries might have been an accident, but how about all five? These people are not in league with Fulton's Renal Compound and the curability of Bright's Disease is a fact if one-tenth of the letters we have received are true.

With failure admitted by the books under the old treatment in chronic Bright's Disease and with reports like the above from many patients on this treatment how can any one be undecided. If you have Bright's Disease you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Renal Compound before giving up. You can get it at Frank Edmondson & Bro., 11 North Broad street and 106 North Pryor street, Atlanta, Ga.

For pamphlet on our investigation into the curability of Bright's Disease write John J. Fulton Co., San Francisco. (Advt.)

STORM HITS WAYCROSS; TEN BUILDINGS WRECKED

Big Damage by Hail to Crops South of City--Lightning Strikes Station

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 7.—Although of short duration the wind storm that struck Waycross and vicinity Sunday afternoon was one of the most severe ever known here. Hebardville, a suburb north of the city, felt the full force of the storm. A Baptist church, the postoffice, and five dwellings were blown down by the wind, the postoffice being taken from its foundation.

One negro church in Northside, a section given over to negroes, was completely demolished and other blown from its foundations and so badly damaged it will have to be almost completely rebuilt. A three-story wooden building at the corner of Parallel and D streets was rocked badly by the wind, and may have to be rebuilt. Every window in this structure was blown out.

In every section of the city trees were blown down and fences demolished. Several big plate glass windows were smashed, as were windows in several offices in different buildings. Roofing from several stores was thrown into streets.

In the country many trees and fences were blown down and crops were damaged considerably, especially corn. South of Waycross, around Uptonville and Fort Mudge, it is reported that a severe hail storm swept the country, damaging crops. Fences and trees were blown down in that section, it is reported. Between Nahunta and Waycross the wind was felt, but not as much as in Waycross. The Coast Line's depot at Nahunta was struck by lightning and a portion of the structure demolished.

BIG HOLINESS MEETING WILL OPEN AUGUST 7

Rev. Joseph H. Smith and Rev. J. L. Brasher Will Lead Indian Spring Services

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

JACKSON, Ga., July 7.—Preparations are well under way for the annual session of the Indian Spring Holiness camp meeting, which will be held for ten days beginning August 7. In view of the fact that this is the largest camp meeting in the south, particular interest centers around the annual sessions.

Rev. Joseph H. Smith, who has just completed a tour of the Orient, his trip including visits to Japan, Korea and the Philippines, and Rev. J. L. Brasher, of Boaz, Ala., have been selected to do the preaching this year.

Rev. L. B. Bridges, of Kentucky, will have charge of the young peoples' meetings, while, as heretofore, Charlie D. Tillman, of Atlanta, will lead the music.

Ten families are already at the camp ground. The main tent under which the services are being held is being enlarged and will hold several hundred more persons. The large number of cottages at the camp ground, which covers several acres, will fill up rapidly from now on to the opening of the meeting on August 7.

ALABAMA GOVERNOR NAMES SON PRIVATE SECRETARY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 7.—Daniel W. Troy, who succeeded John D. McNeel, as private secretary to Governor O'Neal, three months ago, has resigned and the governor has appointed his son, Kirkman, to fill the vacancy. This announcement was made by Governor O'Neal Saturday afternoon. Mr. Troy's connection with the governor's office will cease Monday and he will return to his position as special counsel for the state in the foreign corporation cases.

Kirkman O'Neal graduated from the United States Naval academy at Annapolis last month and resigned immediately because of defective eyesight. The resignation of Mr. Troy was submitted to Governor O'Neal June 18, and accepted July 25, but did not become known until Saturday afternoon. The private secretary gave his other position as his reason for leaving the executive office.

MASONS ASSEMBLE FOR DISTRICT CONVENTIONS

Thomasville to Be Scene of Meeting of Second District Lodgemen

(Special Disbpatch to The Journal.)

THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 7.—Several hundred members of the Masonic fraternity are expected to be in Thomasville this week at the meeting of the Second district convention of Masons which convenes with the Thomasville lodge of that order on Thursday and Friday.

Among the prominent visiting Masons present will be Grand Master Colding of the Georgia grand lodge and Grand Master Glover of the Florida Grand lodge.

An interesting program has been prepared for the occasion which includes an address of welcome by Mayor Roscoe Lasley, with a response by Colonel R. C. Bell, of Cairo, an address by the state grand master, degree work by the various lodges, including those from Albany, Bainbridge, Boston and others and several other features of interest.

Hon. R. L. Wylly, of this city, is worshipful master of the convention and will be in charge of its deliberations.

A number of committees have been appointed which will be in charge of the arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors, a pleasant program for which has been arranged.

EXTENSION OF RAILROAD SOUGHT BY SEN. SWEAT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 7.—More determined than ever in his position regarding the extension of the state road from Atlanta to St. Marys and Jacksonville, Fla., Senator J. L. Sweat, of the Fifth district, returned to Atlanta last night. He is hopeful of favorable consideration in the senate of his resolution calling for a commission to investigate the proposition.

Discussing the proposed extension, Senator Sweat said that such a road, running from Chattanooga to Jacksonville, touching some of Georgia's best territory, would pay the cost of the state government and would give the state more funds for schools.

WARFARE ON FIREBUGS SAVES TWO MILLIONS

Joseph Johnson, New York Fire Commissioner, Puts "Arson Trust" to Rout

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 7.—The rout of the firebugs, which Fire Commissioner Joseph Johnson believes he has effected in his campaign against the "arson trust" will save New York City $4,500,000 this year, according to an estimate based upon a remarkable decrease in fire losses for the first six months. The losses up to July 1 aggregated $2,588,215 as against $5,819,001 for the corresponding period in 1912, a decrease of $2,238,686.

KIDNEY AND BLADDER WEAKNESS

Very Dangerous—Note Symptoms and Protect Yourself From Serious Illness.

The symptoms of diseased kidneys and bladder: Scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; stitches and pains in the back; growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; Swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency. Wear a Mohair Suit!

There are Reasons

If You Don't Live in Atlanta, Order by Mail

The Daylight Corner

By all means, get yourself a MOHAIR Suit! It's the most "sensible" Suit that a man can wear in Summer. MOHAIR is extremely light in weight and porous---yet, so firmly woven that garments, if properly tailored, hold their shape splendidly.

MOHAIR Suits are always dressy---they are ideal for business, travel or Sunday wear. Most of our MOHAIR Suits are Cravenetted which makes them SHOWER-PROOF! We have them in solid colors, and in Pin-Check and Striped effects, from $15 to $25.

You Can't Be Well When Constipated

"Keep Your Bowels Open"—Doctors Estimate 75 Per Cent. of Sickness Due to Torpid Liver.

Some undigested food is left in the stomach daily, which the liver should clear away. A heavy or unusual diet, or a chill, or change in water, may cause the liver to leave a few particles to press and clog, and the next day more are left over. So this waste accumulates, clogging stomach and intestines, and causing constipation.

That is not all. If the waste is not eliminated it ferments and generates uric acid, a poison which gets into the blood and through the system.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT immediately flushes the stomach and intestinal tract and washes away every particle of waste and fermentation; it purifies the blood by dissolving what uric acid has accumulated and passing it off in the urine.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is much better than calomel: no danger of salivation, no need of an after-cleansing dose of oil. It acts quickly and mildly; never forces, gripes or nauseates. It effervesces agreeably. Take it before breakfast and in an hour you'll feel splendid.

Don't take an inferior substitute; some closely imitate the name, but none produces the same result. All druggists should have the genuine JACOBS' LIVER SALT. 25c. If yours cannot supply you, full size jar mailed upon receipt of price, postage free. Made and guaranteed by Jacobs' Pharmacy Co., Atlanta.—(Advt.)

CONSPIRE AGAINST DOMESTIC HARMONY

The ills of women seem to conspire against domestic harmony. No husband can understand why a woman should be continually ailing, fretful, nervous and despondent, and he gets out of all patience with her. In nine cases out of ten some organic derangement is the cause of this condition and it is easily overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a woman's remedy for woman's ills which has cured more severe cases of this kind than any other remedy we know.—(Advt.)

THE ATLANTA JOURNAL'S $7,000 BOOKLOVERS' CAMPAIGN.

The Plan and How You Can Enter

The Journal has published seventy-five pictures, each representing the title of one book.

Seven thousand dollars' worth of prizes will be given to those who can select the most correct titles.

Every contestant has the right to ten answers on each picture.

The Journal's new Official Catalogue contains all the titles used.

The Answer Book gives you the right to ten answers, using only one of each picture. With the Answer Book The Journal will give you the first thirty-five more pictures free.

The Answer Book will cost 50c at the office, 90c by mail. The Catalogue sells for 25c at the office, 27c by mail. Use the coupons in ordering. Extra pictures cost 5c each.

Subscribe for The Journal and get all the Campaign stories.

Get all, part, and get in line for your share of the $7,000.

The Campaign is open to all residents of Georgia, Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

See complete prize list on another page.

BOOKLOVERS' QUERIES

Mrs. C. C., Dublin, Ga. 1. Read paragraph 3 inside front cover of the catalogue. 2. Both "Thrums" and "Bennett" are proper names. The pictures could only be printed in black and white, except when printed in our "pink" baseball extra, which would have no significance.

Miss M. S., Bartow, Ga. You will have to decide Nos. 56 and 61 yourself.

Reade, Meansville, Ga. It will be perfectly agreeable to write the answers in your Answer Book as suggested.

T. W. C., Covington, Ga. The winner of first prize in last year's contest, had 72 correct solutions, using 254 answers.

Enquirer: 1. No questions will be answered after July 12th. 2. We will print a list of the correct answers in our last year's contest, within a few days.

Mrs. T. C. V., Quincy, Fla. 1. Does it affect the solution of picture No. 13 that only half of the man is shown? No. 2. No special class of books indicated in No. 61. 3. Decide Nos. 20, 47 for yourself. 4. "The Fate of a Soldier" was the correct answer to the picture referred to in our last year's contest.

Earnest Contestant, Atlanta. 1. Is man in No. 7 soldier? No. 2. Is there water in No. 55? No. 3. Where proper names are used, they would be indicated in plain type. E. B., Atlanta, Ga. You will have to decide your question on No. 56 for yourself.

Mrs. W. A. W., 1. No. 20 is not a street scene. 2. Decide No. 70 yourself. 3. Merely a matter of taste. 4. Decide month in No. 62. 5. All titles are selected from The Journal's official catalogue and if they are not correct in the catalogue, they will be listed that way. Go by the catalogue.

A Booklovers' Contestant. Only one name could be signed to an Answer Book, but it would be perfectly agreeable for you to write the answers for your friend.

D. D. H., Atlanta, Ga. You can write your name anywhere on the pages in Answer Book.

Mrs. T. H. H., Madison, Ga. All titles are selected from the catalogue and if they are not correct in the catalogue they would be listed that way. Go by the catalogue, also read inside front cover, paragraph 3, of the catalogue.

Mrs. J. A., Valley, Ga. Is house vacant in No. 75? Decide for yourself.

J. J. L., Adel, Ga. 1. No special kind of trees in No. 38. 2. Decide Nos 47, 6, 58 for yourself. 3. All the black lines in No. 75 are drawn to represent the house.

Mrs. E. L. L., Nashville, Tenn. We have stated that the correct answer to No. 1 was not given. All the answers used in remodern stories are merely contestants' solutions, and we could not say if the the correct answers have been mentioned in any of those stories, with the exception of No. 1.

Miss L. M., Hawthornville. 1. No snow in any picture except No. 23. The printer made an error in setting this number 32, when the question was asked or No. 23. 2. All titles are selected from The Journal's catalogue, and if they are wrong in catalogue, they would be listed that way. Go by the catalogue, also read paragraph 3 inside front cover of catalogue. 3. Where proper names are used they would be indicated on pictures, as they which is printed in the people and things pertaining to the country of Wales. You would have to decide for yourself as to this title being applicable to any of the pictures.

Contestant. The Answer Books that were used in last year's campaign are no good in this campaign. You must have this year's Answer Book, or submit your answers with pictures and coupons.

M. D., Griffin, Ga. You are mistaken in regard to having the right to ten answers on each picture in submitting answers without the Answer Book. Using pictures and coupons alone you would have to have a picture and coupon for every answer or 750 coupons and pictures to submit that many answers.

JUDGE URGES JURY TO PUT STOP TO HOMICIDES

Judge George Bell Says Such Horrible Crimes Should Not Be Possible Here

"Let's stop these horrible homicides," said Judge George L. Bell, of the superior court, in charging a new grand jury Monday morning.

"Such crimes should not be possible in a community like this," the jurist added, and then he charged the jury to follow out closely and carefully any clue that it might get to the perpetrators of the crimes.

Judge Bell's charge was extremely brief, and he told the grand jury that this being an "off" term of the court that it would have very little work to do, and that the solicitor general would place before it the criminal records. He made no specific reference to any public issues.

When the jury was organized W. D. Beattie was elected foreman, and almost immediately the body commenced the consideration of a number of routine cases placed before it by the solicitor general.

It is not considered probable by court attaches that the new grand jury will make an effort to indict James Conley as an accessory or as a principal in the Mary Phagan murder over the protest of the solicitor general.

Here's a Little Hint To Keep You and Also The Other Man Cool

Here's a little hot weather hint handed out in behalf of a man whose life in hot weather is not a happy one—at least while he is at work.

His name is Hendon, and he is the man who answers the telephone in the city health department.

In calling the health department over the telephone to report something unsanitary, don't get angry if Hendon declines to go into details.

He is under a nervous strain that not every young man could stand without losing either his temper or his job, on each side of him is a telephone. In front of him is an almost continual stream of people. He answers the phones, issues burial permits, takes the record of contagious diseases, and keeps the books of the sanitary department—which, by the way, involves something like $200,000 per year. These are the main duties of Clerk Hendon. He has others. He is on the jump every minute of the day.

Therefore, don't insist on telling him all about the matter you are reporting. He has a note of it, reports it to a sanitary inspector, and the inspector goes and looks into the matter personally.

CHARITIES CONFERENCE IS HELD AT SEATTLE

(By Associated Press.)

SEATTLE, July 7.—Third sectional meetings of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections took place today. Dr. W. H. Slingerland, of the Russell Sage foundation, New York, addressed one meeting on "The Need of Child Welfare Work in Rural Communities."

W. T. Cross, of Columbia, Mo., president of the Missouri state board of charities and correction, delivered an address on "Unity in Child Help Service."

Little Boy Goes to Sleep Under Box Car And Has Leg Mashed

A tired little negro boy went to sleep on the tracks of the Central of Georgia railway Sunday night and woke up with a start early Monday morning to find his left leg had been run over by the wheels of a box car.

His name is Robert Jeter, and he is thirteen years old, and lives at 50 Culver street. He had crawled beneath the box car seeking a place to sleep. When a switch engine pumped into his resting place about 8 o'clock Monday morning the wheels of the car struck his leg, which was thrown across the rail.

The member was half-way severed, although the darky managed to draw it back before it was mashed off entirely. T. C. Phillips, a switchman, was an eye-witness to the accident, which occurred near the corner of Peters and Humphries streets. An ambulance was called and the boy was taken to the Grady hospital.

DEMOCRATS OF SENATE DEBATE TARIFF BILL

Measure to Be Reported to Senate This Week—To Parcel Out Schedules

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Senate Democrats caucussed again today on the resolution and other champions of the bill argued that opposition which developed was necessary to expedite debate and to assure its passage.

Senator Simmons will report the bill to the senate late this week.

It now is a little more than three months since the ways and means committee introduced the measure in the house.

When the bill gets into the senate chamber Simmons intends to follow the Underwood plan of parceling out schedules to members of the senate committee.

DR. CUTHRELL RESIGNS ROME PASTORATE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROME, Ga., July 7.—The Rev. Dr. George F. Cuthrell, pastor of the First Christian church of Rome, has resigned, to take effect on September 1, and will go west to reside. This step was taken on account of his wife's health, and they will make their home in either San Antonio or Denver. Dr. Cuthrell has been pastor of the church for the past five years, during which time it has gained more than a hundred in membership and has built one of the handsomest church edifices in the state.

With the resignation of Dr. Cuthrell a complete change in the pulpits of all the principal churches of the city will have taken place during the past year, with the single exception of Dr. G. F. Sydnor, who has been pastor of the First Presbyterian church for the last twelve years. All of the Methodist and Baptist churches in the city are now served by ex-pastors, the First Baptist church is at present without a pastor. The former minister, Dr. R. B. Headden, now acting in the capacity of manager pending the filling of the pulpit permanently.

THOMAS COUNTY MELONS BRINGING FANCY PRICES

Shipments of Cantaloupes and Watermelons From Thomasville and Meigs Are Heavy

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 7.—Watermelons, cantaloupes and grapes are some of the productions of Thomas county that are distributing good money around now at a time when it is needed.

The average price for watermelons has kept up well at $100 per carload, this price of course being for the better class of melons, with fancy lots bringing still higher prices. While the shipments will not be as heavy next week they will still keep up during the week.

Cantaloupes have been bringing about $850 a carload, with probably about half or more of the crop shipped. While the acreage immediately around Thomasville has been small there have been some fine crops made in other sections of the county.

Meigs has begun the shipment of grapes and the crop is reported as being rather shorter than usual, which means that the prices will be higher. This crop is an important one and there is a large area planted in this fruit in the Meigs district.

GRIFFITH WILL NOT PRESS HIS CHARGES

Although the police board will likely be officially notified of the charges of C. H. Griffith, a New Orleans traveling man who says he was arrested falsely Saturday morning, it is doubtful if any action will be taken against the two arresting officers, Brown and Rivers.

Griffith complained to Mayor Woodward about his arrest. It is up to the mayor to present this complaint to the police board at its meeting Tuesday night. He may see fit to let the matter drop, as Griffith says that he will not remain in the city to press his charges. He pleads business engagements in Mobile and Savannah.

CIVIC LEAGUERS BREAK WITH STATE SUFFRAGISTS

Alignment With Bull Moose Party Cause of Split in Ranks of Association

The Atlanta Civic league, said to be the oldest woman's suffrage organization in the state will take no part in the convention of the Georgia Woman's Suffrage association, which meets in Atlanta Wednesday and Thursday.

In other words there has been a split in the ranks of the Georgia suffragists.

Mrs. Frances S. Whiteside, a leader o fthe Civic league, explains the trouble by declaring that there are no properly constituted officers o fthe state association, which the Civic league can recognize, and there is really no bona fide state organization, she says.

She admits, however, that a big reason the Civic league refuses to recognize the state organization is that the leaders of the state organization strongly advocated the Bull Moose party up to a few months ago.

On the other hand, Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, president of the state organization, says that the civic league has not paid dues to the state organization, and that for that reason it could not have delegates on the floor of the convention if it wanted them. However, the state convention is going to grant the civic league the privilege of having its members seated in the visitors' gallery, if they want to watch the deliberations of the body.

The state organization is supposedly made up of the different civic leagues, but Mrs. Whiteside says there is no record of the naming of any delegates to a state convention since 1908, and no record of dues being paid to or called for by a state association.

All this, despite the fact that the constitution of the state association calls for the annual election of officers.

While it is admitted that Mrs. McLendon was named state president in 1911, it is charged that the delegates, who met and elected her did not represent the entire suffrage interests of the state.

Peace emissaries are hurrying between the two camps, the one in command of Mrs. McLendon and the other of Mrs. Whiteside, but their efforts have so far proved futile.

Unless an understanding can be reached by the warring factions before the convention of Wednesday and Thursday, it is said that the civic league will call another state convention and organize another association, which will probably be headed by Mrs. Whiteside.

STONE HURLED BY AUTO FRACTURES MAN'S SKULL

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 7.—Unconscious and with his skull crushed, Alfred Attebury, a Louisville grocer is in a local hospital tonight, the victim of a peculiar accident. Attebury was sitting in front of his store this afternoon, when the wheels of an automobile, running swiftly along the street, caught up a stone about five inches in diameter and hurled it against his head with such force that the skull was fractured. The doctors do not think he will recover. The driver of the automobile has not been identified.

Negro Shoots His Wife

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
GREENSBORO, Ga., July 7.—Bob Jones, a negro, shot his wife Sunday afternoon on the farm of Mr. A. L. Horton, about six miles from Greensboro. It is said that Jones' wife was sleeping when he shot her, and it is alleged without provocation. The woman, although seriously injured, is expected to live. Jones was caught about two miles from Eatonton, attempting to make his escape, and he is now lodged in the Greene county jail.

Show Fishermen's Trophies

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
GREENSBORO, Ga., July 7.—The shell of a large sea turtle weighing about 300 pounds is being displayed in the front of the court house at Greensboro. The turtle was caught at Port Royal, S. C., by a fishing party of Greensboro people who are fishing on the Carolina coast. The skin of a man-eating shark is also being displayed at the court house. The fish was caught by the same party.

Dr. S. B. Anderson Dies

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
ELBERTON, Ga., July 7.—Dr. S. B. Anderson died here Sunday morning after a short illness. He was seventy-five years old and came here two years ago from Millersburg, Ohio. He is survived by his bride of a month, formerly Miss Lucile Vest, of this place. His funeral was held Sunday afternoon.

Big Oats Yield

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
GREENSBORO, Ga., July 7.—Fifty-six bushels of oats to the acre is the yield of Messrs. Miller and Ellard, two young farmers near Greensboro. They gathered 2,804 bushels of oats from fifty acres of land.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES--RESINOL CURED

Atlanta, Ga., April 24, 1913: "When I received the samples of Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment my face was covered with pimples which defied other creams, soaps and cosmetics. They were a source of constant humiliation to me, coming in contact with many strangers as I do as a business woman.

"By the time I had finished a cake of Resinol Soap and half a jar of Resinol Ointment, my skin was soft as velvet, and as smooth. My friends were stunned, and everyone asked me what I had done. When I told them, I think they hardly believed it, for the transformation was simply wonderful.

"Since then I have been using Resinol Soap and shall never be without it again, for I have earned the delights of a clear, soft, beautiful complexion that may be attained by its constant use." (Signed) Miss E. P. Gaddis, 284 South Pryor St.

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

Effort to Abolish Board of Cobb County Commissioners.

A plan to abolish the board of commissioners of roads and revenues for Cobb county and restore the management of that county's affairs to the ordinary will be introduced in the house of representatives by Representatives J. P. Cheney and H. B. Moss, of Cobb.

If the general assembly passes this bill the question of abolishing the board of commissioners will be submitted to the Cobb county voters. The act creating the county board was approved August 22, 1907. Prior to that time the ordinary was vested with the authority to manage the affairs of Cobb county.

Suggests State Pay Campaign Expenses of All Poor Candidates.

Men of wealth, according to Charles Jack Shipp, editor of the Cordele Rambler, are gobbling up all the important offices in Georgia and the result is that a poor man, no matter how competent, has small chance of election to any position worth while.

A radical remedy for this condition of affairs is proposed by Editor Shipp who suggests the adoption of a constitutional amendment making it possible for the state to defray the expenses of candidates who are too poor to finance their own campaigns.

Former Governor Brown Did Not Name a Single Higher Court Judge

In neither of his two terms as chief executive did former Governor Brown ever have an opportunity to appoint a judge of either the supreme or appellate courts. Seldom, before, has any governor ever completed a two-year term without one or more vacancies occurring on one of these courts. All of the judges of both courts are elected by popular vote, but from time to time vacancies occur for various reasons.

Although the former governor made no appointments to the higher courts he was afforded opportunity to distribute patronage broadcast over the state. Hundreds of judges and solicitors of county and city courts, and other officials obtained their places at his hands.

Representative Cole to Make Hard Fight for Inheritance Tax Bill.

Representative E. D. Cole, of Bartow, who introduced Bill No. 1—the proposed inheritance tax law—in the house of representatives on the first day of the present session of the general assembly, is thoroughly convinced that Georgia should have such a law on her statute books and he will make a hard fight to get his bill passed this year.

Mr. Cole is one of the most active and successful young business men in north Georgia. He is what is known as a conservative progressive and takes a serious view of the financial problem which confronts the state. In the opinion of its author an inheritance tax law would greatly increase the state's revenue and the income would grow larger from year to year.

Job Seekers Hot on Trail Of Commissioner J. D. Price.

J. D. Price, the new commissioner of agriculture, is besieged by applicants for jobs. Ever since he assumed his office a week ago Commissioner Price has been bombarded by letters from his friends and supporters, who either ask places for themselves or for friends. Quite a number of the "faithful" have called in person to discuss desired appointments with the new commissioner.

In each and every instance Mr. Price has been compelled to inform these friends that there is not an available appointment open. His predecessor, J. J. Conner, of Cartersville, handed out all of the jobs lying around loose and Mr. Price was left with absolutely no patronage except the appointment of his office force.

Committee Appointments Appear To Have Given General Satisfaction

If the comment in the newspapers throughout the state can be relied upon Speaker Burwell and President Anderson made a very fair and even distribution of the committee assignments of the house and senate.

During the past week the newspapers in almost every county have taken occasion to refer with pride to the committee appointments secured by the members from the counties in which the commenting papers are published.

Of course there was dissatisfaction among some of the legislators over their assignments, but on the wnote the committee appointments were pleasing both to members and their constituents. It was quite impossible for the presiding officers to give every member exactly what he wished, but that they succeeded remarkably well in a difficult undertaking is generally conceded.

Creation of Candler County Urged by Marietta News

The Marietta News takes the position that if the Georgia legislature is to create any new counties during its present session it should give first consideration to the claims of Candler county, which if established, will have Metter for the county seat.

No attempt is made by the News to argue the merits of the Candler county proposition. It simply contents itself with the statement that the creation of this county would bestow honor upon a distinguished Georgia family. Says the News:

"These people are making a hard fight and a good showing for a new county and we believe in rewarding the diligent and industrious for their work. 'Candler county' looks well, sounds well, and would honor a great family of Georgians. There are Bishop Warren A. Candler, Asa G. Candler, Judge John S. Candler, Milton A. Candler, and 'Little Billie Candler, all of one family, boys famed over at Villen D. Candler, and several ladies who were most earnest teachers in their day. Let Candler county be put on Georgia's map."

Woman's Curiosity Leads to Recovery Of Stolen Jewels

(By Associated Press.)

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 7.—It was a woman's curiosity that led to the recovery yesterday of most of the $50,000 worth of jewels which were stolen July 2 from the home here of Harry L. Haas, a New York lawyer. The arrest of James McIntyre and R. Rhind, in Greenwich, Conn., and the alleged principals in the robbery was the result of detective work of Mrs. Eugene Scott.

Rhind, who was employed as a nurse in a sanitarium at Greenwich, had rooms at her home. McIntyre visited Rhinds and the landlady's curiosity was such that she listened while the men were talking in Rhind's room, and she heard them discussing the disposition of some jewels.

The police recovered from a satchel in the possession of the two men practically all of the jewels, and while McIntyre is alleged to have confessed, Rhind denied that he had anything to do with the robbery.

Country Club Officers

ANNISTON, Ala., July 7.—At a meeting held Saturday night S. L. Calbraith, assistant cashier of the Anniston City National bank, was elected president of the Anniston Country club to succeed J. O. Sprouil. The other officers elected were: C. H. Young, vice president. Hubert Dent, secretary; T. J. Harris, treasurer. Governing board, A. H. Sheppard, chairman; L. T. Smith, C. B. Wells, Walker Reynolds and H. M. Ayers.

HARDWICK WON'T DISCUSS PROSPECTS OF RE-ELECTION

Tenth District Congressman Says Question of Future Candidacy Premature

Thomas W. Hardwick, representative of the Tenth district in congress is spending a few days in Atlanta. His attention was called to a publication in a Saturday afternoon newspaper that he would not again be a candidate for congress. Mr. Hardwick, when asked about this, replied:

"I have authorized no one to say that I will or will not be a candidate. When I have a statement to make I will make it directly to my constituents who have honored me by keeping me in congress for the past twelve years. It is entirely premature to be making announcements of any political sort at this time."

Camp Cars Burned

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
WAYCROSS, Ga., July 7.—Fire Saturday night destroyed four camp cars of the construction forces of the Waycross and Western, twenty-one miles west of Waycross. It is not known how the fire started. None of the men were in the camp at the time the fire started. The loss is estimated at $4,000. Less than a month ago a supply store belonging to the company was burned near the same place.

YEGGMAN GETS HEARING ON MONDAY AFTERNOON

Walter Turpin, Cracker of Postoffice Safe, Says He Will Plead Guilty

Walter Turpin, the yegg who cracked the safe of the Kirkwood postoffice last Friday night and was shot under the left arm in the fight which followed, will receive a preliminary hearing in a DeKalb county jusrace of the peace court at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Judge House, of Kirkwood, and Judge A. Shelverton, of Decatur, will be on the bench at the hearing. Turpin says he will plead guilty. He appears to be reconciled to returning to the pen and blames his fall on drink.

An official from the Atlanta federal penitentiary visited Turpin at the DeKalb county jail in Decatur Sunday afternoon and positively identified him as the convict who left the prison last February after serving out a five-year term for passing counterfeit money.

Turpin will be able to attend the hearing despite his wounds. He appears to be suffering more from his fall down the elevator shaft in the postoffice, which strained his back, than he is from the pistol bullet.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. ELLA BROWN.

Zora Jones died at a private sanitarium at 9 o'clock Sunday night. She was formerly an inmate of the Hapeville Orphans' home. The body was removed to Hemperly's parlors in East Point pending funeral arrangements.

Feed Mules Better Than Men In Prison Camps, Says Divine

A severe excoriation of convict conditions in Georgia and of the laws which permit them walk the burden of the sermon by Rev. Dr. A. R. Holderby in his pulpit at the Moore Memorial Presbyterian church Sunday morning. He quoted Philip Weltner in his report of conditions as "unspeakably horrible," and of the treatment of convicts as "barbarous and inhuman"—"a shame to Georgia,' and "a disgrace to any civilized country."

"The Shame of Georgia Is Her Convict System" was the announced theme of Dr. Holderby.

"The present convict laws are harsh, vindictive and cruel," he declared, "and give no hope or incentive for a better life. The convict camp are simply schools of infamy and vice, where boys and men are graduated in crime.

"The cost of feeding a convict," said he, "is 10 cents per day. That of feeding a mule in Fulton county's camps is 48 cents per day.

"It would be well if the convicts could swap places with the mules," said he. "I would rather be a mule than a convict in a Fulton county camp."

SACRED HEART CHURCH TO HAVE PICNIC TUESDAY

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twentytwo per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirtyseven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. A. F. Peeler, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."

Dr. Frederick D. Rogers, of Chicago, Ill., says: I have found Fletcher's Castoria very useful in the treatment of children's complaints.

Dr. William C. Bloomer, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: In my practice I am glad to recommend your Castoria, knowing it is perfectly harmless and always satisfactory.

Dr. E. Down, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in my practice for many years with great satisfaction to myself and benefit to my patients."

Dr. Edward Parrish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild laxative effect and freedom from harm."

Dr. J. B. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."

Dr. C. G. Sprague, of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."

Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from this locality as to its efficiency and merits."

Not Whether to Go to COLORADO But How to Get There!

That is the question. Everybody who can beg, borrow or steal the time for a vacation is going to Colorado this year.

Old Pike's Peak is flashing her wireless to every city and home. People are dreaming of camping tents in deep ravines and quaint summer homes on the mountainside. Men and women, young and old, are going by the thousands this year. And they all want to know the best way to get there. The best, surest and most comfortable route to Colorado is

Union Pacific

STANDARD ROAD OF THE WEST

—the road on which your vacation starts when the train starts—the road that makes Colorado an overnight trip and brings it within the reach of every home. Perhaps you have never thought of this before. Colorado has seemed to you so far away that only the fortunate people of leisure could go. Now the Union Pacific has brought it down to an overnight trip. And, such a trip! Such dinners! Such beds! Such open carriages, where you sit out-of-doors in the cool shade and Nature unrolls for you such a daylight and moonlight film as was never shown in any theatre!

This wonderful road is the only line to Colorado having the advantages of double tracks. Automatic Electric Block Safety Signals and dustless Sherman gravel all the way. On this route millions and millions of dollars have been spent for your luxury — this certainly is the only way to go.

CITY WILL REBUILD REFRESHMENT STAND

Building Burned in Grant Park Sunday Morning Carried $2,500 Insurance

The city has an insurance policy of $2,500 on the Grant park refreshment stand, which was totally destroyed by fire at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, and the park board probably will take steps at once to rebuild.

J. O. Cochran, president of the board, and Dan Carey, general manager of parks, made an examination of the ashes and debris Sunday. They are at a loss to know the origin of the fire. Mr. Cochran states that the night watchman had difficulty getting the fire department over the telephone.

Manager Carey says the park will be benefited by the fire, barring the inconvenience to the public in the meantime, because the new refreshment stand will be much better and prettier than the old. He estimates that $2,500 will build a concrete building. He says it probably will stand nearer the lake, so as to be on a direct line with the zoo building, and will be designed by an architect.

Charles L. Chosewood, who has the Grant park concession, suffered a loss equal to that of the building. His soda fountain was ruined, several electric pianos were burned and quite a large quantity of supplies went up in smoke. He is partially protected by insurance, it is understood.

The refreshment stand was a two-story brick building, and burned like tinder. It was practically destroyed by the time the fire department arrived. The blaze and the crackling of the fire created great excitement among the animals in the zoo, which is a short distance away.

FIFTH REGIMENT NOW READY FOR ENCAMPMENT

Gov. Slaton and Staff and Former Gov. Brown to Spend Three Days in Camp

All is in readiness for the departure of the Fifth regiment for St. Simons Tuesday night, where they go for their annual encampment.

Before entraining the militiamen will march through the streets of Atlanta, the parade beginning at 7 p. m. from the auditorium-armory.

On Friday night former Governor Joseph M. Brown and Governor John M. Slaton, with a staff of twelve colonels, will leave for the island and spend three days in camp. Brigadier General Robert K. Evans, commander of the Second brigade of the First division, and Lieutenant Colonel Charles H. Barth, his adjutant general, also will leave at the same time.

LESSON OF PEACE FOUND IN GETTYSBURG REUNION

That the semi-centennial reunion on the battlefield of Gettysburg held a lesson of peace for the world was the assertion of Dr. Dunbar Ogden in his sermon Sunday at the Central Presbyterian church on "Peace at Gettysburg."

"Both armies, one in gray and the other in blue, were represented there on the fiftieth anniversary of the great struggle," he said, "but they did not fight again. The consciousness of right ruling the world is what brings peace," said Dr. Ogden.

Mystery in Rich Mackay Family As Father Spirits Children Away on Ocean Liner

CLARENCE MACKAY, MULTI-MILLIONAIRE, AND MRS. MACKAY, NEW YORK SOCIAL LEADER.

Just as the giant new Hamburg-American liner Imperator was about to sail from New York the other day Clarence H. Mackay dashed up with his three small children in an automobile, surrounded by a bodyguard of private detectives, also in autos.

The mysterious proceeding has started the story that Mr. Mackay and Mrs. Mackay have separated and that Mr. Mackay hurried the children out of the country to prevent his wife from getting possession of them.

GIRL PHONES FOR COPS WHILE BOYS ROCK FRIEND

When a young man who had been calling upon a young lady at her home on Cherokee avenue boarded his car for town Sunday night several of the neighborhood lads conceived the whimsy of pelting him with rocks and bricklats.

While the neighborhood lads were tossing things at the young man and pulling at his coat-tails to drag him earthward, the young lady rushed to the telephone and called police headquarters. Officers were dispatched to the scene, but the boys who did the "humping" could not be found.

FOUR ROBBERIES AND ONE HOLD-UP; BUT ONE ARREST

Thugs Find Sunday Fine Day for Operations in All Parts of City

Thugs ran riot in Atlanta Sunday, according to the number of cases that were reported to the police. Out of four robberies and one hold-up but one arrest has meen made.

Operations of the marauders were as follows: Howard and Peachtree streets, burglary; 270 Fulton street, burglary; 72 Auburn avenue, burglary; 44 East Alabama street, burglary. One suspect is held for the Fulton street crime. The hold-up report came from E. M. Duke, who declares he was stopped by a negro at the corner of Luckie and Harris streets and relieved of $6.

TANGLE IN TAX OFFICE BEFORE COUNCIL AGAIN

Two Plans of Reorganization Will Be Threshed Out at Session Monday Afternoon

Among other matters at its regular session Monday afternoon council will take up the reorganization of the city tax office, and a lively debate is expected over the various plans proposed.

The tax committee, which has undertaken to work out a plan, cannot agree. Some of the committee believe the office should be merged and placed under the control of the assessors, as it used to be, while the others believe the assessors should constitute one branch of the office and G. B. Beauchamp, the chief clerk, should take tax returns and constitute another branch.

Mayor Woodward is understood to be against the proposed merger, and is expected to veto this plan if council passes it. Whatever plan council adopts will have to be passed by the legislature as a charter amendment before it can be put in poeration.

BROKEN GLASS MENACES BATHERS AT PIEDMONT

E. Dukeheart Cut Seriously, Lodges Formal Complaint With Park Board Heads

Broken glass or similar debris on the concrete floor of Piedmont park lake's shallow enclosure constitutes a real menace to the hundreds who play there each day, according to E. Dukeheart, a victim of this wanton carelessness on the part of other people. Mr. Dukeheart stepped upon a broken bottle or something of that nature, on the bottom of the enclosure, Sunday afternoon, and cut his foot seriously.

Mr. Dukeheart stated Monday morning that he had reported the matter to Dan Carey, general manager of parks, and that Mr. Carey had condemned the carelessness which made it possible, promising rigid instructions to guard against it. But no watch, believes Mr. Dukeheart, will be so constant as to prevent a repetition of the accident unless people who otherwise would toss bottles into the enclosure are made to realize how thoroughly to be condemned their act would be.

BELL HOUSE "BOYS" TO HAVE BIG BARBECUE

Mrs. Emma Bell Will Be Guest of Honor at Poplar Springs July 19

Not less than 125 past and present "Bell House Boys" are expected to attend the annual barbecue on July 19 of the "Bell House Association." The big affair will be held at Polar Rock springs, near the end of the Lakewood car line, and Mrs. Emma Bell will be the guest of honor among her pampered proteges.

At one time or another scores of Atlanta's leading men have boarded with Mrs. Bell and are entitled to membership in the select association of the "Bell House Boys." The man among them who graduated from that "boyhood" for any other purpose than to get married is a rarity indeed. The saying is "Once a Bell House Boy, always one, unless you marry."

THEATERS

(Criticisms of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater managements.)

Grand—Talking Pictures.
FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

For this week—daily matinee and night—the Forsyth will offer two big feature headliners and five other acts. This week will usher in the eleventh bill of vaudeville since the Forsyth returned to its old policy.

The headliners wil be Cecil Lean and company and Eva Taylor and company. The act of Cecil Lean will be his own satire on the "movies," called "The Moving Picture Man."

There will be continuous performances of Edison's talking pictures, together with the highest quality of first run moving pictures at the Grand all this week, starting daily at 2:30 o'clock and concluding at 10:30 o'clock. Ten cents will be the admission at any time, and that price pays for the entrance and the best unoccupied seat in the big cool theater.

The matinee this afternoon will usher in the engagement of Minnie Palmer's and Norman Fridenwald's latest 1912 cabaret, "Along Broadway." Few attractions that have visited the Bijou of late give such promise of a pleasing, snappy performance as this one. The fact that Will Stanton, the well-known comedian, and Rosalind May, head of the company, gives assurance that "Along Broadway" will be a bright and breezy performance. This clever pair will be assisted by a half dozen principals and a big chorus.

In addition to the many musical numbers there will be introduced several vaudeville acts, including dancing, violin solos, harmony singing and the Tango dance. The comedy is in three scenes, the first being Summerville, a place of rest, the intermission in which the vaudeville will be put on, and the third scene representing Rector's Cafe de Luxe. It is said that the scenic investiture is elaborate and that a great deal of money has been put in scenic and light effects to supplement the many changes of costume.

"Along Broadway" will be seen at the Bijou the entire week, with the usual matinees and night performances at 7:30 and 9.

Public Judgment Supports The Game Law.

It is evident that any attempt to repeal or to weaken Georgia's game law will encounter intense opposition among thoughtful citizens throughout the State. Especially significant of public sentiment in this regard are the recent utterances of such papers as the Albany Herald and the Dawson News. The former declares editorially:

"We are quite sure that we have the best game law we ever had; the only one, in fact, that ever amounted to anything or afforded any real protection to our birds and fish. It has been efficient under the direction of Commissioner Mercer who has entered into the work, which he was selected to supervise, with keen enthusiasm."

In like vein, the News remarks:

"The game law, which has already been of vast benefit under the vigorous administration of Commissioner Mercer, should be safeguarded wherever possible."

The truth is Georgians are more alert than ever before to the importance of conserving this particular field of their natural resources. All true sportsmen realize the necessity of a game law that is well designed and well enforced; while farmers recognize the fact that upon the preservation of bird life the safety of their crops and orchards from destructive insects very largely depends. Considered from an agricultural standpoint, the present game law is worth millions of dollars and, if supplemented at certain points, it will be worth still more.

Of this, we may be sure, that no one who is abreast present day thought will for a moment entertain any suggestion to impair the law's usefulness or to take a backward step in this vital sphere of conservation. On the contrary, public judgment is squarely behind the statute and squarely behind Commissioner Mercer in his faithful and efficient efforts to enforce it.

Mexico seems to be resigned to a semblance of peace.

Here's hopin' congress will have the benefit of the breeze, too.

The Balkan war will go down in history as no tin soldier affair.

If Turkey Has a Chance.

Turkey is a cheerful spectator of the new Balkan war and, should occasion permit, she would probably become a busy participant. The forces which only a few months ago were fighting side by side at Adrianople and conquering fertile regions of Ottoman territory are now leaping at one another's throats; the Balkan allies which wrought such wonders in diplomacy as well as in battle is shattered and the little nations which were strong in their union are weak and exposed in their division.

The statements issuing from Constantipole are characteristic of Turkish ways. The Ottonian government expresses a desire to maintain neutrality but adds that the conflict among the Balkan allies has naturally aroused great excitement in the Turkish army and that unless Turkey is granted certain rights which thus far have been ignored, it will be exceedingly difficult to restrain either the soldiers or the people. That is to say, if any opening presents itself, Turkey will dash in and regain as much of its lost territory as it can.

There is one serious obstacle in the way of such a policy. Turkey's treasury is empty and there is no apparent means of recouping and re-invigorating its broken army. Had the Balkan split come six months ago, the war would doubtless have had a very different ending. As it now is, however, other Powers than Turkey will profit by the break among the allies.

Austria is eagerly watching developments and is prepared to seize any opportunity for advancing her own interests at the exepense of the lesser nations. Unless the Allies compose their differences, they will stand in grave peril of losing much that they have won in the Turkish campaigns.

The young man courts danger when the girl's father objects.

When it comes to the income tax, Uncle Sam will ignore several millions of hard working Americans.

We can see no reason just now for the recall of the weather man. He seems to be disposed to do the correct thing.

Georgia's Welfare Demands A Compulsory School Law.

In their recent annual convention held at Newnan, the teachers of Coweta county adopted resolutions in which they urge, among other needed measures, the enactment of a law requiring all normal children between the ages of six and thirteen to be placed in school for at least three consecutive scholastic months each year.

This petition is well worthy the Legislature's favorable response, for, it voices the conviction of an especially able and experienced body of men and women and further ore it represents the mature judgment of thinking citizens throughout the State. Indeed, the time has come when our General Assembly can no longer afford to lag behind public sentiment and public thought on this vitally important issue. It is Georgia's misfortune that she is today one of the only six States in all the Union that has not adopted a compulsory school attendance law. Let it not be said to her disgrace that she shall suffer this backward condition to continue another year!

We must face the disturbing fact that there are but five other States with a greater percentage of illiteracy than Georgia. This magnificent commonwealth of whose material resources and industrial progress we are so justly proud, whose golden sun and fertile acres are beckoning homeseekers from every corner of America, this commonwealth whose people are known for their liberal minds and hospitable hearts stands forty-third in the record of illiteracy, when she should stand in the forerank of popular education.

This fact is due partly and largely but by no means entirely to our large negro population. The United States census reports show that between 1900 and 1910 negro illiterates in Georgia fell from fifty-two per cent to thirty-six and five-tenths per cent, a decrease of more than fifteen per cent; while during the same decade white illiterates fell from eleven and nine-tenths per cent to seven and eight-tenths, a reduction of only four and one-tenth per cent.

These figures speak for themselves and they speak with tongues of iron. They warn us that in behalf of our practical interests, if not in behalf of our ideals we cannot afford to neglect longer the solemn duty of guaranteeing every Georgia boy and girl the right to a common school education.

The annual report of our State department of education after noting the fact that there are several counties where white illiteracy is large, declares in this connection:

"Investigation seems to prove that these illiterates are the children of illiterates and that illiteracy always tends to propagate itself. The wages of an illiterate person are practically always small, in comparison, with those of one who has received educational training. . . . We lose thousands of dollars every year through the listless, feeble, ineffectual efforts of those who are in this condition. The State is dependent upon the training of her people for wealth, progress, civilization and it is her duty to see that these children are trained for citizenship, if only as a matter of self-protection."

There has been, in seasons gone by at least, a tendency even among some of the advocates of a compulsory school attendance law to discuss this issue in rather a gingerly manner, as though they were apologizing to prejudiced opposition. Let us away with this half-handed meticulous policy. Let us deal with the needs and the rights of Georgia children frankly and whole-heartedly, as they deserve, taking a bold, firm stand against the shame that our State now suffers from years of duty shirked.

Whoever fancies that compulsory school attendance would prove unpopular with the rank and file of Georgians grievously underestimates the conscience and intelligence of our citizenship. Such a law, on the contrary, will prove one of the most popular as well as most useful, ever enacted and the legislators who place it upon our statute books will earn everlasting enconiums and gratitude.

Once more the Georgia peace is advertising us to the nation.

President Wilson continues to disappoint his enemies by not making a mistake.

Secretary Daniels' advice is good. When overheated, think of the growing cotton crop.

It begins to look as if the Democrats would give us more money and cheaper commodities at the same time.

THE PHILIPPINES

XXV.—UNDER SPAIN.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The story of Spanish discovery, conquests and administration of the Philippine islands is replete with adventure, romance, intrigue, bloodshed and of the remaking of a race through religion rather than through force. The cracked and worm-eaten pages of history harking back for nearly 400 years tell not only of Spaniards and Filipinos but of Portuguese, Dutch, British and Chinese. Soldiers, priests, civil administrators, pirates and harlots schemed their lives away in plots and counterplots from generation unto generation, from century unto century, weaving into the pre-American history of the Philippines a fancy tale that equals any of the Arabian Nights.

The Philippine islands were discovered by Ferdinand Magellan in the name of King Charles V. of Spain, May 7, 1521. Seldom does a tourist who visits the little Portuguese colony of Macao, near Hongkong, remember that Magellan was a Portuguese and that but for his sovereign's frown Portuguese possessions in the far Pacific would have comprised the rich and widely extended Philippine islands instead of the little piece of rock known as Macao. Magellan had explored the Moluccas for the king of Portugal and it was there that he heard of the Spice Islands. But his king gave him a cold reception upon his return to Portugal and as a result he entered the service of Spain.

* * *

Another interesting point which seems amusing today in view of the relative importance of Spain and Portugal in comparison with the great nations of today, is that in the days of Magellan, Spain and Portugal were considered so powerful that Pope Alexander VI. divided the world equally among them. To Portugal he gave that half which lay to the east of a meridian which he fixed 370 leagues to the west of the Cape Verde islands, and to Spain he gave the half lying to the west of that meridian. Magellan believed that the Moluccas islands were situated in the Spanish hemisphere and proposed to Charles V. that he endeavor to reach these islands by the western route, the course travelled at that time by the Portuguese being around the Cape of Good Hope.

* * *

The king agreed and Magellan sailed from Seville on August 10, 1519. He discovered the straits which are now known as Magellan Straits, crossed the Pacific ocean in the direction which he knew the Molucca islands were situated and thus discovered the Philippine archipelago.

* * *

He landed at the port of Cebu, April 7, 1520. The landing was effected only after a fight with the natives. Trouble continued between the Magellan party and the native chief until Magellan agreed to join the chief in tribunal war on the chief of the island of Mactan, near Cebu. He was killed in the fight, his followers compelled to flee from the islands and the command devolved upon Captain Juan Sebastian del Cano. Inasmuch as the voyage out had been across the Pacific and the return was made via Cape of Good Hope, the glory of having been the first party to go around the world went to del Cano and the handful of men who made the return trip with him.

* * *

Magellan's newly discovered islands were named the Poniente islands, the word "poniente" meaning very poor. An expedition led by del Cano and Loaisa went out in 1525 and succeeded in reaching Mindanao of the Philippine group. They also got to the Molucca islands but there both commanders were killed. An expedition under the famous explorer Hernando Cortes ventured forth two years later, reaching the Moluccas but not the Ponientes. The next hardy mariner to make the hazardous voyage was Captain Andres de Urdaneta, who afterwards became famous as a priest. He left Navidad, Mexico, on November 1, 1542. Three ships went to pieces on the coast of Samar and the explorer reached Spain only after an absence of seven years. The project of occupying the islands of Poniente was then given up.

* * *

However, Philip II. decided to send another expedition to the islands. Magellan Lopez de Legaspi was selected, to command the expedition. He was appointed governor and captain-general for life of all the lands he might occupy. Accompanying him was Captain Urdaneta, now an Augustinian friar, whose knowledge obtained during the voyage of Loaisa was very useful on the trip. Legaspi and Urdaneta sailed from Navidad, Mexico, on November 21, 1564. On February 13, 1565, the island of Leyte was reached; then in turn he touched at the islands of Mindanao, Bohol and Cebu. He took possession of each in the name of King Philip II. and thus the islands became known as the Philippine islands.

* * *

It is a fact that this definite possession of the islands was prompted by religion and not in search of gold. The Viceroy of Mexico who dispatched Legaspi in the name of Philip II. directed him to treat the Augustinian friars in his company with the utmost respect and consideration so that the natives would also hold them in respect. He wrote Legaspi: "You are aware that the chief end sought by His Majesty is the increase of the holy Catholic faith and the salvation of the souls of the infidels." When the king was later told that the Philippines were not rich in gold and pearls, he answered:

* * *

"That is not a matter of moment. I am an instrument of divine Providence. The main thing is the conversion of the kingdom of Luzon, and God has predestined me for that end, having chosen me as king for that purpose. And since he has entrusted so glorious a work to me and my crown, I shall help the islands of Luzon, even though by doing so I exhaust my treasury."

* * *

Again in 1618 in the reign of Philip III. it was proposed to abandon the Philippines on the ground of their useless expense to Spain and an order to that effect was given. A delegation of Spanish friars from the islands appealed to the king personally not to abandon the 200,000 Christians whom they had by that time converted and the order was countermanded. Indeed, the friars always had greater influence in the Philippines than the civil authorities and more than once the archbishop ruled the islands with the government agent in the role of bejewelled major domo to His Grace.

* * *

Legaspi had a number of fights with Portuguese ships and also succeeded in pacifying the natives. This was finally effected through the baptism of the gay little daughter of a native ruler of Cebu. Then they gave her a nice Spanish husband and peace reigned. Six years later, in 1571, Legaspi resolved to go north to the big port called Maynilla of which he had heard from his nephew Captain Juan de Salcedo. He organized an expedition of twenty-seven boats and 280 soldiers. There he found two Mohammedan chiefs in command. He broke their power and founded what is now the city of Manila. The baptism of one of the rajahs was not neglected. As Legaspi extended the authority of Spain, he was greatly assisted by this same nephew Juan, who although but twenty-two years old, showed great bravery, tact and personality. It was Salcedo who defeated the notorious Chinese pirate, Limanhong, who was a terror of the Chinese seas and in his attacks upon the islands reached the outskirts of Manila.

* * *

Some of Legaspi's successors as rulers of the islands had glorious ambitions and even planned expeditions and conquests to Borneo, Siam, China and Japan. Many of them considered the islands fair game for loot. The first of these was a certain Gonzalo Ronquillo. He and his followers were guilty of great extortion and cruelty and the first of many insurrections against Spanish authority occurred during his administration. The greatest friend of the Filipinos at this time was the famous Bishop Salazar.

A SUMMER SUMMARR.

(Warmed over and regarnished from this plinth of years ago.)

Shall I, living in a grot,
Die because the day is hot?
Or declare I can't endure
Such a torrid temperature?
Be it hotter than the flames
South Gekenna Junction claims;
If it be not so to me,
What care I how hot it be?

Shall I rail because a guy
Swears the bulb is not so high,
Or assures me that the heat
Bothers me because I eat?
Be it colder than the tomb
Or the Charley Whitman boom—
If it be not cool to me,
What care I how cool it be?

Shall I say I love the town
Praised by Robinson and Browne?
Shall I say "In summer heat
Old Manhattan can't be beat"?
Be it luring as a bar
Or my neighbor's motor car,
If I think it is passing,
What care I how fine it is?

Shall I prate of rural joys
Far from civic smoke and noise?
Shall I, like the others, drool
"But the nights are always cool"?
If I hate to rise at six
Shall I praise the suburbs? Nix!
If the country's not for me,
What care I how good it be?

Town or country, cool or hot,
Differs nothing, matters not!
For, to quote the Roman cuss,
Why dispute de gustibus?
If to this or that one should
Take a fancy, it is good.
If these rhymes look good to me,
What care I how bad they be?

FANTASTIC FAITH

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

When Mme. Annie Besant was according brief audiences to the unbelieving in a pretty little hotel placed at her service by one of the elect of the Parisian "world," Emile de Saint-Auban penetrated into her sanctuary and asked her if she believed that faith was failing among men.

"There are no unbelievers," replied the prophetess. "The unbelievers of today believe a lot of things."

A very shrewd truth! Also that saying of Joseph de Maistre, "We are approaching the greatest of religious epochs."

The variety of bizarre "beliefs" is inconceivable. Cities are full of them. All around, our fevered money-making plays the most amazing spiritual freakishness. We have as many soothsayers, crystal-gazers, necromancers, philter-concocters, hoodoo artists, clairvoyants, fortune tellers and spook dealers in general in Boston or Chicago as they had in Tyre or Troy.

Humanity continues to believe as fiercely, unreasoningly, and pugnaciously now as in former times, though an era of tolerance has cut our fangs.

There is no city without its variegated cults, movements and new religions. Sometimes they are pursued in cheap boarding houses, sometimes in hired theaters, sometimes they build expensive temples. And the newer and crazier the faith the more militant it is.

Huysmans state that they are still celebrating the iniquities of the "black mass" in certain houses in Versailles.

There is hardly a superannuated god of Olympus or of Walhalla that cannot find some worshippers, he adds, in Paris.

They recently had a congress of spiritists at Geneva, where all the sharpshooters of metaphysics gathered to compare their strange "facts," and incidentally to dine at tables that, let us hope, were not tipped by uneasy ghosts.

I know a perfectly rational man, to all appearances, who confidently believes that the world is coming to an end in 1914. He is disposing of his property and going to move to the mountains so as to be high and dry when the wave hits us.

It sometimes seems as if the modern "tired business" or "society woman" will swallow any sort of outlandish "faith," provided it is not orthodox.

It all means the irrepressible hunger of the human spirit. If it cannot find bread it will eat shucks and boot tops. Utter materialism is impossible. The human soul will not believe in mud.

Brahmanism and Buddhism have many followers in America. The east still fascinates.

Last summer at Stonehenge, in England, where are the Druid remains of stone temples, there was a meeting of English sun worshippers, and girls danced in the dew and saluted the rising orb of day.

There never was greater opportunity for an apostel of wholesome, intelligent human faith than now. The common people would hear him aas gladly as they heard the Nazarene, though in time doubtless they would make of him, as they made of Jesus, a strange, heathen fetich; not to be heeded for simplicity, but to be worshipped with elaborate rites on Sunday and disobeyed with a whole heart the rest of the week.

American Universities Rich in Romance

American collegiate history is full of romance and of thrillingly interesting occurrences of which more should be made, declares a writer in the Yale Review. The founding of Dartmouth college in the wilderness by Eleazar Wheelock for the purpose of educating Indian youth; the association of Benjamin Franklin with the plan for the University of Pennsylvania, of Rufus Putnam and of Manasseh Cutler with that for Ohio university, of Thomas Jefferson with the creation of the University of Virginia, and of the two great men memorialized in the name of Washington and Lee university; the impressive commemorative exercises at Harvard and Yale at the civil war's close, the former identified with the participation of Edward Everett, James Russell Lowell, and Phillips Brooks, the latter with that of William M. Evarts and of Horace Bushnell; the invasion of New Haven by the British under General Tryon when good President Naphtali Dargett, musket in hand, showed his ardent patriotism; the setting-up of the first printing press on this continent at Harvard college, and Washington's assuming command of the American troops under the shadow of her buildings; the temporary holding of congress in old Nassau hall; the beginning of the University of Georgia with Abraham Baldwin, one of the framers of our constitution—these are facts taken almost at random indicating the close association of some of our long established universities with the most pregnant events in American history. They have the associations necessary to make them factors in the maintenance of historical continuity for the whole country. —Christian Science Monitor.

A Wonderful Flight

(New York Evening Post.)

The wonderful feature of M. Brindejonc's successful flight from Paris to St. Petersburg and back is not the distance, the 3,100 miles covered falling a thousand miles short of the distance traversed by Rodgers in this country in 1911, when he flew from Sheepshead Bay to Pasadena. But while the American accomplished his undertaking by a long series of short flights the Frenchman has attained his goal by a short series of long and speedy flights. Rodgers's longest flight in one day was 281 miles. The Frenchman's shortest flight in one day was 219 miles. The American was in the air on thirty days, scattered over seven weeks. Brindejonc flew on just nine days, scattered over one calendar month plus two days. And the Frenchman's speed! On the first day of his trip, he flew from Paris to Warsaw, 875 miles, in eight hours, averagaing well over a hundred miles an hour. At another time, he travelled a considerable distance at the rate of 140 miles an hour. Of course, it is possible for our pride to reflect that the Frenchman succeeded only by flying a return journey, and that he was compelled to travel over the territories of several nations, while in our broad domain Rodgers went in only one general direction, and was never out of the jurisdiction of the Stars and Stripes. But for a decadent people, the French must be admitted to act rather strangely now and then.

Ancient Trees

(From the London Chronicle.)

None of the famous British oaks, long-lived though they are, comes anywhere near holding the record as the oldest tree in the world. The Soma cypress, in Lombardy, is known to have existed forty years before the birth of Christ, and Ceylon boasts a sacred tree which is said to have sprung from a branch of one under which Buddha reclined in the Sixth Century B. C. According to Dean Stanley, too, there are still eight of the original olives standing in Gethsemane. Straying into the realm of legend, one can find a tree sprung from Cain's staff in Palestine.

Out of the Mouths of Babes

Miriam, aged five, had been delegated to rock the baby to sleep.

"I can't do it, mamma," she said after trying for some time. "He won't keep his eyes buttoned."

"Is your sister taking music lessons?" asked the visitor.

"She's takin' somethin' on the piano," small Tommy replied, "but I don't know whether it's music or typewritin'."

COUNCIL'S NEW CHARTER GOES TO LEGISLATURE

Introduced in House Monday by the Fulton County House Delegation

The new charter for Atlanta gotten people's new charter indorsed at the citizens' mass meeting in the auditorium was introduced in the house of representatives Monday by the Fulton county delegation.

It will be recalled that a new charter drawn by Charles T. Hopkins, John S. Candler and John E. McClelland was oral thousand citizens in the auditorium several months ago, and that they unanimously indorsed it and adopted resolutions asking council to submit it to a white primary between that time and the session of the legislature.

Instead of complying with this request, council threw the charter, thus indorsed, into the waste basket, and passed up to the legislature one of its own devising, which is not in reality a new charter, but a revision of the present charter.

If the legislature passes this charter the people will have an opportunity to vote on it at a date to be fixed by the legislature.

SCATTERED ASSETS CAUSE SUSPENSION OF BANK

Pittsburg Banker Who Controls 80 Waterworks Systems Investigated by U. S.

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, Pa. July 7.—Differences of long standing with the treasury department concerning the character and value of certain assets of the former First National bank of Pittsburg which was merged with the Second National Bank of Pittsburg ast March, under the title of the First-Second National bank of Pittsburg, culminated this morning in the closing of the institution by order of Deputy Comptroller of the Currency T. P. Kane.

Directors and officers of the institution were in conference yesterday and last night with special bank examiners. Early this morning notices were posted on the bank doors that it had been ordered closed.

The Pittsburg Clearing House association has taken charge of the situation generally, and announces that no further trouble is expected. None of the officials of the bank would make a statement this morning announcing that affairs were in the hands of the government officials.

The last statement of the bank's condition made upon call of the comptroller as of close of business June 4.

Bank President Controls Big Waterworks Company

NEW YORK, July 7.—W. S. Kuhn, president of the First-Second National bank of Pittsburg, is also vice president of the American Waterworks and Guarantee company, of which J. S. Kuhn is president. The company controls waterworks in about eighty cities and towns in the United States. The capital stock of the various controlled companies is about $72,000,000.

It is learned that attorneys this afternoon appeared before Judge C. P. Orr in the federal court and asked for receivers for the American Waterworks and Guarantee company, and also for the firm of J. S. & W. S. Kuhn, incorporated. For the former these were appointed: J. S. Kuhn, W. S. Kuhn, J. H. Furdy, general manager of the company, and Samuel Bailey, Jr., a bank official of this city.

For the Kuhn company was appointed J. K. Duff, who is treasurer of the company. Bonds of $50,000 were ordered filed for each receiver.

SAVANNAH POSTMASTER IS PLACED UNDER FIRE

Federal Inspector Probing Charges Made Against Him and Assistant

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 7.—For the purpose of investigating charges that have been made against Postmaster Marcus S. Baker, Jr., and Assistant Postmaster William C. Green, Frank Frazier, a postoffice inspector from Washington, is making a special investigation into the affairs of the Savannah office.

It is understood charges have been preferred against Messrs. Baker and Greene by parties who are opposed to their remaining in office. The report of the inspector will be made in a short time and forwarded to the postmaster general.

Messrs. Baker and Green say the charges are old ones which have been fully answered in the past.

ATLANTA ACTOR SHOOTS WIFE, THEN HIMSELF

News has been received in Atlanta of a double tragedy in Kansas City, in which Frank Bailey, a vaudeville actor of Atlanta, first shot his wife to death as she law asleep in bed and then blew out his own brains with the same revolver. His wife also his partner in a sketch was known as Mazie Edwards, and originally came from Denver, Col.

According to the dispatch Bailey and his wife who were married three years ago in Chicago, had just arrived in Kansas City for a week's engagement. Jealousy is given as the motive for the crime.

A friend in the hotel, hearing the two shots, went into the couple's apartment where he found the woman in bed with a wound in the back of her head, and Bailey upon the folor dead, a smoking pistol in his hand.

Both Bailey and his wife were well known in theatrical circles here. Bailey made his start as an actor in this city, later he was booked for a tour by G. E. Greenwood, manager of an agency located in Atlanta.

APPROPRIATIONS WILL BE HELD DOWN RIGIDLY

Chairman Wheatley Says No "Specials" Will Go in General Bill

It is not the intention of Chairman Crawford Wheatley, of the house appropriations committees, that the general appropriations bill shall be weighted down with special appropriations. Mr. Wheatley and other leading members of the committee on appropriations will insist that the general appropriation bill only carry the appropriations necessary to maintain the state and its institutions and that all special appropriations be embodied in separate bill or otlls to be threshed out on their merits before the general assembly.

Under such a plan the general appropriations bill will contain nothing but the proportionments for fixed expenses of the state and its institutions. This would obviate the possibility of any protonged debate and would insure the bill going to a speedy passage in both the house and senate. It is believed that such a bill could be ready for consideration by Governor Slaton within the next two or three weeks.

Special appropriations of all kinds, whether in the shape of increases to state institutions or for entirely new purposes, would be provided in one or more bills, which could be discussed at length by the committee and debated as long as desired in the house and senate.

By eliminating special appropriations from the general appropriation bill the latter can be passed with dispatch, and there will be little likelihood of its being vetoed by the governor. The special appropriation bills will stand or fall on their individual merits.

The subcommittee from the appropriations committee will meet Monday afternoon to prepare a tentative draft of the general appropriations bill. As soon as this draft is agreed upon it will be submitted to the full committee and perfected for introduction in the house. The subcommittee consists of Crawford Wheatley, ex-officio chairman; H. J. Fullbright, A. B. Greene, of Houston, and N. F. Culpepper, of Merriwether.

SLAYER WOOTEN, SERVING LONG TERM, ASKS PARDON

Shot W. H. Griffin When Taunted for Being Member of "Holy Rollers"

W. J. Wooten, of Kingston, Bartow county, who has served about a year of a ten-year sentence for the killing of W. H. Griffin, a Kingston merchant, in a fight at a meeting of Holy Rollers," through his attorneys, R. R. Arnold, of Atlanta; Judge A. H. Milner, of Cartersville, and S. P. Maddox, of Dalton, (tvM Im ETAOINShrdlucmwy

The feature of the hearing before the commission was the testimony of Charles Jones, of Cartersville, a brother of the late evangelist, Sam P. Jones. Mr. Jones, who was foreman of the jury before whom Wooten was tried, declared that the verdict recommended extreme mercy and that petitioners anticipated that the sentence would not be in excess of three years.

However, Judge A. W. Rile, who presided at the trial, sentenced Wooten to ten years. Mr. Jones stated to the commission that since the trial every member of the jury had made affidavits in which they declared that the killing of Griffin was justifiable and that Wooten should be pardoned.

Relatives of the dead man were represented at the hearing by Judge J. N. Neal and Attorney M. B. Eubanks, of Cartersville, they opposed any chabge in the sentence.

Griffin was shot and killed in an altercation with Wooten which grew out of taunts directed by him to Wooten. The latter was identified with a religious section known as the "Holy Rollers." A crazy negro had been taken in custody and when Wooten inquired of Griffin concerning the negro's offense, Griffin is said to have replied: "Oh, he is just one of you 'Holy Rollers.' A quarrel ensue, followed by blows, and then the shootin.

MACON BOY JUSTIFIED IN SHOOTING, SAYS JURY

Prentice Edwards Kills Negro Tenant to Avert Attack on His Father

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., July 7.—Prentice Edwards, son of Postmaster Harry S. Edwards, has been found justifiable in shooting Harrison Newton, a negro tenant living on his father's farm. The negro died at the hospital yesterday morning and the corner's jury found a verdict of justifiable homicide after their investigation.

The shooting occurred late Saturday night when Mr. Edwards and his son went to Newton's home to settle a dispute between the negro and his wife, whom he had badly whipped while he was in a drunken condition.

When the negro attempted to fire on Mr. Edwards, he was shot down by Prentice Edwards.

STATE'S MOTION FOR NEW TALLULAH TRIAL DENIED

Attorney General Felder to Carry Case to State Supreme Court

Judge J. B. Jones, of Rabun superior court, sitting at Gainesville Saturday, overruled the motion of the state for a new trial in the case of the suit brought by the state to oust the Georgia Railway and Power company from certain lands adjacent to Tallulah Falls.

Attorney General T. S. Felder announced Monday that the state would appeal the case to the supreme court. It is believed that the decision of the supreme court will settle the litigation and controversy.

INSURGENT ELKS WOULD BREAK REGULARS' RANKS

(By Associated Press.)

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 7.—Grand lodge politics promises to play an important part in the forty-ninth annual convention of the Elks, which will begin here tonight.

A strong insurgent movement to break the slate of the regulars has gained considerable impetus, the main interest centering in the contest for grand exalted ruler.

Edward Leach, of New York, present grand treasurer, is slated by the regulars for the chief office. He will be opposed by J. Cookman Boyd, of Baltimore, who is running on a liberal platform.

Charles A. White, of Chicago, candidate of the regulars for grand treasurer, is opposed by W. A. Evans, St. Joseph, Mo., P. J. Brennan, Denison, Tex., and George D. Locke, Rogers, Ark. Grand secretary Robinson, Dubuque, Iowa, is opposed by Thomas Little, Temple, Tex.

Insurgents are counting on the support of the western and southern delegates.

Denver and New Orleans are bidding for the 1914 convention.

Governor Sulzer and Mayor Edgerton will welcome the Elks here tonight for their forty-ninth annual convention. The city is gaily decorated and elaborate plans have been made for the entertainment of the antlered host during the six days of the convention.

Atlanta Elks Are Among 1,000-Member Lodges

Word comes from the Elks' grand lodge meeting in Rochester, N. Y., that Atlanta Lodge No. 78 has attained to that exclusive company of lodges showing a membership of more than 1,000. It is one of the thirty-one lodges in the whole membership of the great order with over 1,000 members. Its enrollment reported at the grand lodge is 1,013.

During the past year Atlanta lodge initiated 268 new members, according to figures shown at the convention, thereby achieving further distinction for having added over a hundred new members.

The figures for Georgia show twenty-nine lodges of Elks, with a total active membership in good standing of 5,353.

HOUSE WANTS ADDRESS BY SENATOR HOKE SMITH

by the committe on privileges of the floor.

The committee declared that no appropriation had been made with which to pay the members-elect their per diem and that insofar as the question of their seating had been declared unconstitutional by a large majority of the members, it could not recommend the resolution for passage.

The committee's report will lay on the clerk's desk for a day before it is presented for a vote.

What promises to attract the greatest atention during this week is the hearing of four new county propositions by the committee on constitutional amendments. The committee, which is headed by Shelby Myrick, of Chatham, last week announced its program for these hearings, and if its present plans are strictly adhered to, as to the matter of time limit, there will be no long, drawn-out sessions. After the organization of his committee Mr. Myrick stated that but one hour would be allowed each county, thirty minutes for arguments in its favor and an equal time for arguments against. The hearings will take place in the house chamber in order to have plenty of room to accommodate the large crowds that are expected to be present.

The calendar of the committee on constitutional amendments for the week provides for the hearing of the Candler and Barrow county propositions on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and for the Evans and Hampton county amendments at the same hour on Thursday. The dates for further county hearings will be announced later.

The appropriations committee, of which Crawford Wheatley, of Sumter, is chairman, also will begin its deliberations on Tuesday afternoon. There is every desire on the committee's part to act in accordance with Governor Slaton's wishes, as expressed in his inaugural message—that is to have the bill in his hands at the earliest possible moment, and specifically not later than ten days before adjournment sine die.

Other committees, formally organized last week, are ready to take up their duties along with those mentioned.

Should a resolution introduced by Henry J. Fullbright, of Burke, meet with the approval of the members, all new county matters will be left in abeyance until the next session of the general assembly.

The resolution set forth that no vote can be taken on constitutional amendments until the general election one year from next October and that all new county bills could be introduced at the next session in ample time to meet with this requirement. The resolution was referred to the rules committee.

ATLANTA NEW YORK PARIS

Announcing the First Showing in Atlanta of
The New Fall Suits
There are Many Interesting Style Points About Them

The women of Atlanta may see now, may select now, the suits that will be fashionable this fall!

They are here in a quantity and variety that amount to a display of the new styles.

Rather early, you ask?

No, we would be falling short of what is expected of us did we not show authentic styles the moment authentic styles are adopted.

So here they are!

And the woman going to the mountains to the "cool spots" of America will appreciate not only the newness of these suits but also the somewhat greater weight of them.

But what are the new styles?

Only hints here, we would rather your eyes take in all the interesting points.

Coats are longer, 38 to 42 inches this fall. Cutaways are prominent, perhaps we should say eminent.

They are very varied too---a cutaway, pointed at the back will have a bit of fullness at the side. Waist that you are accustomed to associate only with a blouse---novel, distinctive.

Skirts---the tendency is towards "dressy drapes." They are more marked than ever, also more graceful than ever, a sort of evolution of draping. And the slashed skirt is favored, some of the most charming models have skirts slashed four and six inches.

Materials also show the new scheme of things. You will term them "fancy." Even soft finished cloths show self stripes; crepons are revived, more, they are given wonderful newness and beauty by smart weavers who put little blocks and squares and figures in them. Bayadere poplins are as attractive as can be, and velour broadcloths and, for the more tailored suits, men's-wear serges.

And the rich, beautiful colors you may choose from---mahogany, cinnamon, amethyst, prune, navy, of course, a darker Copenhagan than we know, and green.

However, these are but the details, your pleasure will come of seeing how these details have been embodied into elegant suits, new and out-of-the ordinary.

There will be no importuning you to buy---we want you to enjoy the privilege that is yours, to see the authentic styles in fall suits.

Swimming Party

Mr. Robin Adair will entertain a number of his friends Wednesday evening at a swimming party, swimming to be followed by a buffet supper at which he will be assisted in entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Adair and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gregg.

Bridge Party to Visitors

Mrs. Nell Spencer will entertain at a bridge party Friday morning in compliment to her sister, Mrs. Bailey, and to Miss Lelia Dabney, of Texarkana, Tex., who is the guest of Mrs. Harold Hilton.

Bridge Party to Mrs. Congdon

Mrs. Dudley Cowles was hostess at the initial one of a series of porch parties which she will give during the summer, that of today being in compliment to Mrs. Richard C. Congdon, who will leave Wednesday for Europe, where she will spend the remainder of the summer.

The game of bridge was played on the porch of the lovely home, which presented a charming appearance framed in with its many attractive flower boxes, which were filled with nasturtiums, bright colored petunias and trailing plants.

Palms and many handsome growing plants made the veranda cool and inviting, and at intervals were placed artistic jardinieres holding pale yellow lilies.

The souvenirs for top score at each table were pieces of pottery in arts and crafts design.

Mrs. Cowles received her guests wearing a gown of orchid crepe de chine, draped over pink satin, a corsage of pink sweet peas giving a pretty finish to the costume.

Mrs. Cowles' guests included Mrs. Edward C. Peters, Mrs. Congdon, Mrs. Leverett Walker, Mrs. Robert Adger Smythe, Mrs. George Dexter, Mrs. Henry Bernard Scott, Mrs. Charles Remsen, Mrs. Wellborn Hill, Mrs. W. L. Cosgrove, Mrs. Hudson Moore, Mrs. W. D. Manley.

Week-End Party

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Arkwright entertained a congenial party of young people at their summer home at East Lake for the week-end in honor of Mr. Howell Foreman, who has recently returned from Harvard.

The party was among those entertained Saturday evening at the dinner dance at the East Lake club, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Foreman and Mr. and Mrs. George Howard with Mr. and Mrs. Arkwright acting as chaperons.

The party included, beside the honor guest, Miss Louise Broyles, Miss Margaret McCarty, Miss Virginia Lipscomb, Miss Helen McCarty, Miss Julia Murphey, Miss Dorothy Arkwright, Mr. Clark Howell, III, Mr. Colquitt Howard, Mr. John Lucas, Mr. Edwin Broyles, Mr. Charles Caverly, Jr., Mr. Ward Greene, Mr. Howard Thorne and Mr. William Dickey.

House Party Entertained

A series of parties are being planned for Miss Helen Dumm, of Lake Providence, La.: Miss Elizabeth Stubbs, of Shreveport, La.; Miss Cleta Slagle, of Clarkes, La., and Miss Alice Jones, of Birmingham, who are the guests of Miss Dodo White at her country home, "Woodshack."

An event of Monday afternoon was the matinee party given by Miss Louise Dobbs at the Forsyth.

Tuesday afternoon Miss Marie Cobb will be hostess at a bridge party at East Lake.

Wednesday afternoon Miss Frances Bailey will entertain at a matinee party.

Wednesday night Miss White will entertain a number of girls at her country home for the week-ending, besides her house guests Miss Marion Peel, Miss Katherine Parker, Miss Madge Pollock, Miss Marie Calloway, Miss Frances Bailey, Miss Julie McIntyre and Miss Louise Dobbs.

Thursday morning Miss Emma Lowry Freeman will entertain a number of girls at an informal bridge party and Thursday afternoon Miss Marion Neel will be hostess at bridge.

Friday afternoon Miss Madge Pollock will be hostess at a large tea at her home on North avenue, and Miss Ruth Atkison's dancing party will be an event of the evening.

Saturday afternoon Miss Margaret Fraser will be hostess at a large afternoon tea at her home on Juniper street.

Birthday Party

Little Miss Katharine Howell celebrated her third birthday this afternoon with a patriotic party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Howell. Fourth of July banners and emblems made gay decorations and the favors were also emblematic of the Fourth.

About forty children enjoyed the pleasant occasion.

Little Miss Howell was most lovely in a pretty little baby frock of white worn with pink ribbons.

Club Dance

The Hyperion club celebrated the Fourth of July by a dance at their club house.

The guests were Miss Ethel DeFoor, Miss Addie DeFoor, Miss Olive DeFoor, Miss Verna Eaves, Miss Eulee Loomis, Miss Marie Brady, Miss Mae Hall, Miss Lucile Dunn, Miss Clodie Sands, Miss Marie Kitchens, Miss Zadie Stewart, Miss Nadie Reardon, Miss Neal Cochran, of Athens, Ga.; Miss Pauline Coulter, Miss Annalu Jenkins, Miss Natalie Farrow, Miss Mamie Wynn, Miss Lois Carroll, Miss Charlsie McClain, Miss Eva Owen, Miss R. The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Northington, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Whaley, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Root, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Henderson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Priddy.

To Mrs. Trabue

Mrs. T. J. Risley entertained a few friends informally at tea Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Piedmont club, in compliment to Mrs. J. C. Trabue, of Nashville, Tenn., who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. D. Kennedy.

TWO YOUNG BROTHERS

JAMES AND FRANK KENAN.

The two young men are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Kenan, the elder named for his paternal grandfather, Mr. Frank Hawkins. James is devoted to his small brother, and in the picture is filled with pride at being allowed for the moment to play the part of nurse.

HAPPENINGS IN LONDONTOWN

A young man about town, the son of very rich parents, has become so infatuated with a prominent actress that he is to be seen nightly occupying a seat in the stalls of the theater where she is performing. Friends are speculating as to what his father will do when he learns of the infatuation, especially as he is known to hold very strong views on the subject of matrimonial alliances between the peerage and the stage.

Much gossip has been aroused by an incident at a recent garden party, where a pretty lady suddenly "missed" her brooch. Every gentleman in the vicinity immediately began looking for it, but without success. Some of the ladies present declare that the brooch was never lost at all; but that its owner wished to give her many admirers an opportunity of proving their devotion to her.

The action of a well known society woman while she was staying recently at the country house of her titled daughter, in waking up the whole household at 3 o'clock in the morning, calling for her motor car, and leaving immediately, has created a good deal of talk in society circles.

Quite the saddest feature of a forthcoming divorce suit, in which military titled people are concerned, is that the respondent is the mother of a very large family. She has reached mature middle age.

The Scottish bar anticipates great legal changes. One of the new lords of appeal will naturally and properly come from over the border. Lord Dunedin, the president of the court of sessions, is anxious for the position, but the lord advocate will have the first offer, and he may accept, as a law lordship would not exclude Mr. Ure from participation in politics, to which, as every one knows, he has strong predilections.

Much amusement has been created in Irish circles over a practical joke played by some person or persons unknown upon several of the very select county society leaders of County Wexford, to say nothing of professional and public men. It seems that invitations were received in the name of a prominent resident magistrate requesting the pleasure of their company at an entertainment to be given by him. Most of the recipients made elaborate preparations to go to the party, and the leading tradesmen of Wexford were also on good terms with themselves, as they received big orders for supplies for the function.

A well known Hungarian magnate now resident in England, whose wife is one of the greatest of American heiresses, is said to have been very badly hit by the recent slump in Canpacs.

One of the most favored candidates for the throne of Albania is Prince Roland Bonaparte, the grandnephew of the great Napoleon. His only daughter, Princess Marie Bonaparte, is married to Prince George of Greece. He is immensely wealthy, having inherited a large fortune from his deceased wife, who was the daughter of the founder of th Monte Carlo gaming establishment.

Miss Payne Entertains

One of the enjoyable events of the past week-end was the al fresco party given Friday evening by Miss Mildred Payne, of Elberton, in compliment to her guests, Miss Sara Conyers, of Greenville, S. C.; Miss Elise Hendon and Miss Evelyn Brazell, of Atlanta, and Miss Bertha Gardner, of Gainesville, Georgia.

Miss Payne received her guests wearing a gown of yellow charmeuse.

About seventy-five guests were present.

The Evening Story

The Postman

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

The postman swung around the corner, his gait suggestive of weary shoulders and aching feet. He was a slender, pale young man with dark eyes and hair and a boyish mouth. There was nothing picturesque or imposing about him. His blue suit was faded and his shoes rusty. He was in appearance no better and no worse than a thousand others who lug Uncle Sam's mail about each day. Yet Polly from the window watched him eagerly. The sound of his whistle had caused her to start and glance up from her sewing. Her heart fluttered and faster as he drew near the house where she lived.

Polly impatiently snatched the letter from his hand.

Polly was making herself a pink gingham dress and intended to finish it with embroidery that had cost all of $2 a yard. She wanted that particular bit of embroidery to be as fine as she could have it, and good quality and would rather do without than not have the best.

So it was not the postman in whom Polly was interested, though she had known him all her life long. Indeed, they had been neighbors since her earliest remembrance. She called him Bobby and gave him a smile now and then as she would have tossed crumbs to a starving sparrow. She could afford to be generous sometimes, for she realized that he loved her. Yet, though Polly knew that Bobby worshipped the very heels on her small shoes, she did not love him in return. He lacked quality in her eyes because he was only a postman.

A postman, however, may carry a message from the gods, even though he have no wings on his poor, tired feet. And today a letter was due her from Eustace Vane.

Eustace Vane! Polly could not even think the name without thrilling. It had in it a ring of the grand and gallant poetry he made. It was through his poetry that Polly had first heard of him. She had picked up a magazine one day and there was a poem, the finest and fairest she had ever read. Polly loved poetry. She had steeped her soul in Tennyson and Browning, but it seemed to her that this man wrote better than they.

Polly had read that poem until she knew every word of it by heart. And then she had written to Eustace Vane! Just a word of appreciation—she had felt she must give it! She had sent the letter to him by way of the magazine that had printed his poem. And by way of the magazine he had answered. Yes, he had actually answered, and at some length. The letter was like the poem, beautifully worded, and it expressed delicately the hope that he might hear from her again. Such appreciation as his was of ultimate worth to the seeking, striving soul of a self-made poet.

So the correspondence had begun, and now for a year it had continued unbroken. Once each week she wrote to him and each week he replied. His letters were wonderful, like the man himself. Through his letters she had grown to love him with all the might of her nature. Yet she had never seen him. He had never given her any reason for forming an idea how he looked. She could only guess. She had sent him her picture—a tiny colored photograph just big enough for him to carry in a locket or in his watch. She had hoped that he would send his picture in return, but he had not, so she could only imagine how he looked until that happy day when he had begun to half promise she would actually see him. In the meantime she had his letters and more of his poems.

When the postman approached the house Polly put her sewing aside and ran out to receive the letter from his hand. No wonder the postman hesitated and trembled and finally dropped the letter as he was handing it to her. He was so pale that he looked strange when he arose after picking it up. "Polly," he began to stammer, "I—I wait! I—"

"Why, Bobby Blaine, what in the world—" Polly's tone was almost angry as she impatiently snatched Eustace Vane's letter from his hand. How nice her name looked in that beautifully, scrawly hand! "Miss Polly Weed." She wished it had been a prettier name to write. Polly was bad enough, but Weed was worse. It suggested the ugly and common.

Polly's face was red with joy and eagerness as she backed toward the door, quite forgetful that Bobby was still trying to stammer something. She left him unhappy and vanquished by his own timidity, went in, slammed the door, and fell upon her letter to devour it.

Midway in its pages she met something that sent the color from her cheek. He wrote: "I fear I have been guilty of misrepresenting myself to you, but if you knew how great has been would say and find almost too difficult the provocation. Something of what I you may read in my last poem published in the Standard-America."

The Standard-American! Why, the last number lay at that moment in a pile of literature upon the library table. The Standard-American indeed! Polly's hands trembled as she laid down the letter and took up the magazine. She knew the poem well already, but she read it now, it gained fresh and terrible meaning. It's title was "False Coyn" and it's great central motif seemed to be expressed in two wistful lines:

I wonder if you'd love me still
Were I less worthy than I seem?

The magazine dropped from Polly's hands, and Polly collapsed upon the couch in a passion of anguish. Eustace Vane, her hero, her idol, her ideal was not worthy! With his own hand he had aroused suspicion in her heart, spoiled her dream, plucked the petals from her rose of romance. What had he done? Had he perhaps a wife? Polly imagined the most terrible things and none was more terrible than this—he might be married. In that case his whole attitude became that of a common flirt and Polly had been reared to despise such things.

For the remainder of the afternoon Polly's spirit teetered between the depths of despair and the heights of hope. Tea time found her pale and pink-eyed and her father, coming home, wan and dusty, from the grocery store, saw her with disapproval.

"Bobby Blaine, you come over here!"

"What's the matter with this girl?" he demanded of Polly's plump, comfortable, and sensible mother. "What's ane been doing to make her look like this?"

"Why she sewed all the afternoon. You sewed, didn't you, darling? I was out making calls."

"That's it. Sewing! All humped up over some unnecessary piece of finery instead of being out in the air! After tea, miss, you put on your bonnet and go somewhere. Go to see some girl. I don't have you looking like this. Do you hear?"

So after tea Polly put on her white hat. How could she gossip and eat chocolates feeling as she did? Instead she went into the park and sat down on one of the benches to think things out in solitude and utter disconsolation.

She sat there for ten minutes perhaps before she became aware that she was no longer alone. Somebody else had entered the little green place and seated himself upon another bench not far distant. It was Bobby Blaine, postman, who looked rather nice in a new gray suit and a real panama hat. He, too, seemed unhappy about something. It came to Polly that all the people in the world ought not to be miserable just because she was. Perhaps her treatment of him that very afternoon when he brought the mail had saddened him somewhat. He was really a nice boy, even if he was nothing but an ordinary postman. As for the rest, misery likes company. So she called softly:

"Bobby Blaine, you come over here!"

He came instantly, and sat heavily down beside her. For a few moments he remained silent. Suddenly with a determined squaring of the shoulders he turned and looked her in the face. "Polly," he said, "Eustace Vane is a fraud." Polly could only stare. How did he know about Eustace Vane? He went on: "There isn't any such person. It's all a gross misrepresentation. And I'm to blame for it."

"You?" gasped Polly, white as her hat.

"Yes, I ought to be kicked all around the park. But it was an awful temptation. If you'd ever been in love you'd know. That's my only excuse, Polly. I wrote that poetry and all those letters. Look here!" He snatched forth his watch and showed her inside the case the picture she had sent to Eustace Vane. "Doesn't that prove it? I wanted you, Polly, so much, and when those people forwarded me your first letter I seemed to have a chance; I took it. It was low and mean and unworthy of me, I tried. And more, I wanted to tell that I've given up my job as postman. Today is my last day. I'm going into the writing business heavy and—but, oh, Lord, what is the use? You'll never forgive me." He looked at her despairingly. "You'll never forgive me, eh Polly?"

Polly sobbed behind her damp handkerchief. "It was awfully mean in you," she said, "and I don't suppose I ought to, but—"

"You will?" breather Bobby, snatching at hope.

Polly nodded and choked. "Maybe," she murmured.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BED TIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

(Copyright, 1913, by J. G. Lloyd.)

A kindly word, a kindly deed,
Is like the planting of a seed;
It first sends forth a little root
And by and by bears splendid fruit.

When Old Man Coyote first came to the Green Meadows to live he chased Peter Rabbit and gave Peter a terrible fright. After that for some time Peter kept very close to the dear old briar patch where he always felt perfectly safe. But Peter dearly loves to roam, and Peter is very, very curious, so it wasn't long before he began to grow tired of the old briar patch and long to go abroad on the Green Meadows and the Green Forest as he always had done, and to find out all that was going on among his neighbors.

Of course Peter heard a great deal, for Sammy Jay and Blacky the Crow would stop almost every day to tell him the latest news about Old Man Coyote. They told him all about how Granny Fox had tried to make trouble between Mr. Wolf and Prickly Porky the Porcupine, and how she had been found out. After they had gone Peter sat very still for a long time thinking it all over.

"H-m-m," said Peter to himself. "It is very plain to me that Old Man Coyote is smarter than Granny Fox, and that means a great deal tome. Yessir, that means a great deal to me. Yes sir, means that I have got to watch out for him even sharper than I have to watch out for Granny and Reddy Fox. Dear me dear me, just as if I didn't have trouble enough as it is!"

As he talked Peter was sitting on the very edge of the old briar patch looking toward the place where Sammy Jay had told him that Old Man Coyote took his sun nap every day. Suddenly he saw something that made him stop thinking about his troubles and sit up a little straighter and open his big eyes a little wider. It was Reddy Fox creeping very, very slowly and carefully toward the napping place of Mr. Wolf. When he was near enough to see, Reddy lay down in the grass and watched. After a while he tip-toed away back to the Green Forest.

Peter scratched his long left ear, with his long left hindfoot. "Now what did Reddy Fox do that for?" he said, thoughtfully. For the rest of the day Peter could think of nothing else, for you know Peter is very, very curious. The next day and the next day and the day after that he saw Reddy Fox do the same thing; all the time Peter's curiosity grew and grew and grew. But he didn't say anything about it to any one, but just puzzled and puzzled over it.

Late that afternoon Peter heard footsteps just outside the old briar patch. Peeping out he saw Old Man Coyote passing. Peter's curiosity could be kept down no longer.

"How do you do, Mr. Coyote?" said Peter in a very small and frightened sounding voice, but in a very polite manner.

Old Man Coyote stopped and peeped through the brambles. "Hello, Peter Rabbit," said he. "I haven't had the pleasure of meeting you outside of the old briar patch for some time." He grinned when he said this in a way that showed all his long sharp teeth.

"No," replied Peter. "I—I—well, you see I'm afraid of Old Granny and Reddy Fox."

Old Man Coyote grinned again, for he knew all the time that it was himself whom Peter really feared. "Pooh, Peter Rabbit! You shouldn't be afraid of them," said he. "They're not very smart. You ought to be able to keep out of their way."

Peter hopped a little nearer to the edge of the briar patch. "Tell me, Mr. Coyote, what is it Reddy Fox watching you for every day when you take your sun nap?"

"What's that?" demanded Old Man Coyote sharply.

He listened gravely while Peter told him what he had seen. When Peter had finished Mr. Coyote smiled, and somehow this time he didn't show all those dreadful teeth.

"Thank you, Peter Rabbit," said he. "You have done me a great favor, and I hope I can return it some time. Do you know, I believe that we are going to be friends."

And with that Old Mr. Coyote went on his way chuckling to himself.

Schumann-Heink and Other Stars at Monteagle

Assembly's Steady Growth, Its Ideals and Purposes---Elaborate Program for 1913---Fine Literary and Bible Lectures by Best Known Scholars---Great Music Festival

The coming season July and August at Monteagle promises to surpass in excellence of its program the liveliest dreams of those who have had at heart its growth and development as a summer educational institution. For the last decade there has been a steady improvement, both in respect to its physical equipment and its literary and religious features. In addition to earlier improvements, such as the handsome five-story Assembly Inn, and the numerous large boarding houses, and the teachers' home, and the 290 summer cottages, and the great Auditorium, seating 3,000 people, later improvements include the enlargement of Warren Hall, the small auditorium for morning exercises, so that now it will easily accommodate 900 persons. New school buildings of suitable type have been erected; the Woman's Association has added a handsome structure on the west side of the hall; many new homes on the Assembly grounds, attractive in architectural design and interior decoration, grace the picturesque building sites with which the mountain top abounds; macadam roadways wind in every direction through the assembly's properties; a comprehensive system of sewerage assures health and comfort in summer housekeeping; tennis courts and gymnasiums for the young people there who delight in athletic diversion; while the library and spacious reading room, rich in good books and magazine literature, appeal to all in the more quiet hours of the day. During this decade, also, there has been an upward tendency in the literary, religious and music programs. The universities of the land have been drawn upon for their best talent in presenting varying phases of English and French literatures, and the audiences at Monteagle have greatly appreciated the advantage that comes from the personal touch with men of master minds.

Likewise the religious programs have included the study of the ever-interesting problems of Biblical criticism and interpretation; the great questions of home and foreign missions; methods in Sunday school teaching and management, all presented by some of the foremost scholars of this generation.

So in music, the Assembly has maintained through each session of eight days a competent orchestra of fourteen members, several of whom appeared from time to time in solo work of very high order. Special music events of much merit, including miscellaneous programmes, oratorios, instrumental and vocal soloists, have formed a part of the general scheme of education and entertainment.

MONTEAGLE CONTROL.

The Assembly is directed by no denomination, but rather by all denominations. The governing power is lodged in a Board of Trustees, composed of four representatives, chosen by members of the Assembly, from each of the following denominations: Methodist, Presbyterian (three branches), Baptist, Christian and Episcopalian. The superintendency of the summer schools, the management of the platform and the building of the program are left solely in the hands of the official superintendent, who is chosen annually by the Board of Trustees. This position has been filled for the last eight years by the present incumbent, Dr. Allen G. Hall, professor of law in Vanderbilt University and dean of the Vanderbilt Law School.

WHAT SUPERINTENDENT STANDS FOR.

While Monteagle is a delightful place as a summer home, with fine water, pure air, freedom from malaria, comfortable and cool nights, gorgeous mountain scenery, wonderful caves and deep canons, yet it is in Monteagle as an educational institution that the present superintendent is interested. It is his desire and hope to make of the Assembly a place of culture and refinement; of liberal learning and wholesome entertainment of religion without cant and schooling without pretense—a sort of clearing house for divergent views. He thinks the platform should not be closed to those who differ from us in opinion, nor used to heighten passion or perpetuate hate, but rather that the platform should be an open door to the public heart through which modern consecrated scholarship may present, for consideration, its wealth of discoveries in many fields of investigation.

CHARLES ALPHONSO SMITH, Ph. D., LL. D.
Professor of English in University of Virginia; Roosevelt Professor American History in the University of Berlin (1910-11). On Monteagle program beginning August 11th.

EDWARD HOWARD GRIGGS, M.A., L. H. D., NEW YORK.

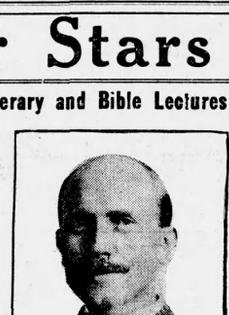
HENRY L. SOUTHWICK.
President of Emerson College of Oratory, Boston. On Monteagle program beginning August 4th.



CHARLES FOSTER KENT, Ph. D.
Author; Professor of Biblical Literature in Yale University. On Monteagle program beginning August 10th.

LAMBERT MURPHY.
A wonderful tenor, now a first principal of New York's Metropolitan Opera Company, who will appear on the program at the Monteagle Assembly Music Festival, Monday night, July 28th.

THE PROGRAM OF 1913.

Moved by all these considerations, the superintendent has striven to build a program for the season of 1913 not only superior in all respects to former programs, but so excellent in every department as to challenge general attention and put Monteagle in a class by itself among the many Assemblies in the South. Whether he has approximated his ideal can be best determined by a study of the leading features of the program.

MUSIC PROGRAMS.

The music for the season 1913 will be in charge of the Monteagle Director of Music, William Guessen of the Birmingham Conservatory of Music. The programs will consist of two chamber concerts every week; out-of-door concerts at 5 p. m. every day; informal open-air concerts every Monday night, mid-week and week-end concerts every Wednesday and Saturday nights; song service on Sunday nights; special music in Sunday mornings, and a musical festival, Saturday night, July 26, and Monday night, July 28. Musicians of renown will appear on these special occasions.

THE MUSIC FESTIVAL

Saturday night, July 26; Monday night, July 28.

MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK.

On Saturday night, July 26, Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink will give a recital. Madame Schumann-Heink, prima donna, born in Lieben, Austria, is accounted among the greatest, if not the greatest contralto in the world, educated at Ursuline Convent, The Prague principal conservatory, Dresden Court Opera, at 17, made her first appearance on the stage at Azucena in "Il Trovatore;" later appeared as Ermentrude Heink and sang a star engagement at Kral's Theater, Berlin; gained national reputation at Beyreuth; member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York City, for many seasons, and in recent years has starred in all the great cities of Europe and America.

LAMBERT MURPHY.

On Monday night, July 28, Lambert Murphy, tenor, Metropolitan Opera Company, will appear on the program. Within the last two years Mr. Murphy has flashed into the limelight; a young tenor with a beautiful, resonant voice, a fine style and a positive personality. He has easily taken first place among the ranking tenors.

INEZ BARBOUR.

Another artist who will appear at the music festival on Monday night, July 28, is Inez Barbour, soprano. Although no prominent as authority than Wilhelm von Sachs, musical critic of the Vienna Tageblatt, wrote glowingly of this singer's resuming of the same part as a guestpiel at the Vienna Royal Opera, she adhered to the determination to remain in her chosen field of concert. Said von Sachs: "Inez Barbour does not sing Wagner, she is a singer and knows how to use it. She proved herself an artist in every detail—her technique as well as her voice, being a delight. Unfortunately, there are few such singers today."

ROSALIE WIRTHLIN.

Miss Wirthlin has just finished a most successful tour with the Theodore Thomas Orchestra of Chicago. Recent editions of the musical weeklies speak glowingly of Miss Wirthlin's repeated triumphs.

REINALD WERRENRATH.

To complete the quartette of celebrities for Monday evening, July 28, there will appear a wonderful young man in the person of Reinald Werrenrath, baritone. Youthful in years, but mature in voice and artistry, he gratifies the most fastidious connoisseurs in his audiences while musical critics agree he is America's foremost young baritone.

Memphis Opens With Crackers---Mobile Next on Atlanta's List

Conzelman to Face Memphis In First Game

If Team Can Only Keep Up Work of Past Week, Series Will Be Won From Memphis, Mobile Is Here Tuesday

TODAY'S LINEUP.

The Memphis club is on hand at Ponce de Leon Monday afternoon, the battle being scheduled to get under way at 3:45. This is the second visit the Turtles have made to Ponce de Leon this season and it is to be hoped that at least the work of the last trip, when Atlanta won two games out of three, can be repeated, though a clean sweep would look much better.

During the season the Atlanta and Memphis clubs have played ten games, each getting away with five. With anything like the class of ball turned out last week the Crackers should surely get away with the odd game this series and forge ahead in the matter of games won. Joe Conzelman, who has been complaining of a sore arm for some days past, will probably get a chance to go to the mound in Monday's game, with Chapman doing the catching. Opposed to this young star will probably be Glen Liebhardt, the old head who is again with the Turtles.

In the past two series the Atlanta boys have been playing jump-up ball and will take only the same kind of work to give the home talent the edge in the games with the Barons. The base running, hitting and fielding have all shown an improvement and just to keep it up means a rise to a higher point in the race.

After the Memphis club leaves, which will be Wednesday night, Mobile arrives for a series of three games and then Montgomery comes over to fight out a four-game stay, this series having an important bearing upon the fight for second place. Right now Montgomery is in second place, with Atlanta making a real hot fight to gain the place. Three games won will do much in this direction and if the locals only keep keyed up to the proper pitch they may slip over the right dose.

ATLANTIANS HOLD CUPS

Now that the four southern tennis tournaments are all over it appears that the Atlanta players are the premiers of the south. They captured the titles at all four of the tournaments.

Dr. Nat Thornton won in the southern tourney at New Orleans, and went up and captured the Old Dominion title in Richmond. He was unable to attend the South Atlantic tournament in Augusta.

Carlton Smith won the Georgia state title in the tournament played at the Driving club here, and E. V. Carter won the South Atlantic title in Augusta.

Dr. Thornton, the southern champion, will probably go to Chicago to enter the matches for the national championship.

It having been definitely decided that Pirst Sacker Ed Konetchy is a Bohemian and not a Pole, the National league race may continue.

EX-MAJOR LEAGUERS NOW STAR WITH MINOR OUTFITS

Joe Kelley, lf.; Rip Watson, cf.; "Dutch" Zwilling, 1b.; "Red" Meinke, ss.; Ralph McConnaughey, p.

The Western league is filled with men who have been tried and found wanting by the majors.

Last year the league was raided and stars "went up." This season there is a dearth of material in sight, apparently, but the organization is full of men who are classed as stars by the fans.

And they are stars—minor league stars who fall just a nit short of circuiting in the big arena.

At St. Joseph, with the ivy is "Joe Kelley, left fielder. Kelley is a corking good base runner. In fact, he is sensational. He is head-off an for Jack Holland's bunch. Fleet, a good hitter, brainy, he looks enough for another trial in the majors. Chicago had him a couple of years ago and turned him back. In the field Kelley is a team in himself, playing the batters with rare skill and gobbling hard drives with ease.

"Dutch" Zillwing is an out-fielder, but has been first-basing, because the regular occupant was injured. Zwilling is a slugger, and the players cannot realize why he hasn't remained in the majors. He is one of those players whose work always looks indifferent, but he is a hard worker.

"Rip" Watson, "Red" Meinke, who has also had his trials and Ralph McConnaughey are among the men who have been keeping St. Joe in the first division.

Western league dopesters predict that Denver, Omaha or St. Joe will win the pennant this year, with the odds favoring Jack Hendricks' champions.

George Rohe Making Good

NEWNAN, Ga., July 7.—Saturday afternoon's game, which ended in a 12 to 2 victory for Newnan over LaGrange, made the fourth game that Newnan won last week with Rohe, the ex-Cracker, There seems to be new life in the local players and Manager Rohe states that he is well pleased with his team and expects to win twenty out of the next thirty games that are to be played.

Newnan, so far, has supported her team as well as any city in the league, having fine grandstand and bleachers, with a large portion of the field, packed every day. There were about 1,800 to 2,000 people out to see the morning game of the Fourth of July. The evening game was played in LaGrange and about 800 of the local fans went down to see the Newnan pair. Talledega on Monday and Manager Rohe says that he is confident of winning at least two out of three from this strong club.

HOW CLUBS PLAY TODAY

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 7.—Birmingham expects a hard struggle with Montgomery this afternoon by reason of the hard playing of the latter to get on top in the Southern league standing. Batteries will be Boyd and Mayer for Birmingham, and Brown and Gribbens for Montgomery.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 7.—The New Orleans and Chattanooga teams will play this afternoon. Batteries: Chattanooga, Summers and Street; New Orleans, McIntyre and Angermeier.

Weather clear and warm.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 7.—The Nashville-Mobile game scheduled for this afternoon has been postponed until Sunday.

COBB VS. JACKSON

Jackson played in Sunday's first game without getting a hit. He scored one run. In the second game he hit safely once out of four times, making his afternoon's record one out of seven.

Cobb, who did not play, gained a little on account of Jackson's slump.

RIVALRY SURE TO CAUSE SETTING OF NEW MARKS

Postponement of Races Has Served to Get Riders Set on Winning

When you get a motorcycle rider chuck full of confidence he is willing to ride his head off for you. Well, that is just the state of affairs at the motordrome and at the racing meet Tuesday evening there will be some fast running.

The racers are now actually sore at each other. They have talked so much concerning their determination to down each other that they have become desperate. Richards naturally believes he is the very class of the racers, while McNeil, Graves and several others are just as strong in their belief that they are the best. Tuesday night brings the opportunity to all and the question will be settled.

It is undoubtedly true that all the riders have the necessary nerve to drive their machines just as fast as they will go, and the events Tuesday night will depend largely upon the way the machines are working. Of course the riders have a lot to do with it, but when all the drivers are experienced men like the ones now here, it is then a case of which machine is geared up the highest and can take the boards at the fastest clip.

Each rider has his little following, and the rivalry will be intense. Graves' friends say he can even better the record making spurt of several nights ago, and in this way hold to his laurels as the record holder. And Graves has no sooner been mentioned than a bunch of Jock McNeil's friends walk up and offer to make a little wager that the Scotchman on his dreaded J. A. P. will make the best time ever turned out on the local track. And Tex Richards also has his backers who are confident that he will be right in the running.

The program of races arranged for last week will be carried out at Tuesday's meet. It has now been definitely decided to stage the races each Tuesday and Friday nights with any postponement calling for the running the following night. This will greatly facilitate matters, and give the fans a knowledge of just when each race is to come off.

CRACKERS FOUR GAMES BACK OF FIRST PLACE

During Next Ten Days Crackers Stand a Grand Chance to Oust the Three Leading Clubs From Their Places—Series Will Be Played With Both Mobile and Montgomery—Team Going Bit Too Good During the Past Week

Traveling at the same rate shown last week, it won't take the Atlanta club any two months to jump to the top of the Southern league pennant chase. In the last seven games the Crackers have won five and tied two while none of the other clubs have done half so well.

During last week Mobile and Chattanooga slumped in their epoch-making spurt, while Mobile played worse than the .500 mark. As all these clubs are ahead of the Cracker bunch, it helped a lot in the little climb experienced by Billy Smith's men.

As the race now stands the Crackers are far from being out of the running, being just four games back of first place, two games back of Montgomery and one-half a game behind the Chattanooga Lookouts. These margins are very small land any day is liable to witness a change.

Fortunately for the Crackers the team had its awakening just at the right time. It is by consistent ball along in July and August that pennants are won and consistency has been the middle name of the Atlanta clan since the final game in Montgomery over a week ago. During the next ten days the Crackers play both Montgomery and Mobile and then is a grand chance of ousting these two clubs from the high positions they hold.

The recent spurts by the Montgomery and Chattanooga clubs are of the fluke variety and of course cannot be retained. Montgomery has a fair ball club as has Chattanooga but neither is as good as their recent work would indicate. They have just hit it up lucky and have gone wild and a drop of club playing a bit below its true form owing to injuries of several star performers.

Since Atlanta began to play real baseball the team has not lost a game, or course this is too good. It is too good for any ball club and the fans might as well set themselves to ra few losses. A team can play jam up ball and yet drop a few games and this is just what the Crackers are going to do. Far worse ball than the team has played the past week will keep it right in the running.

Thompson May Be Cracker

Carl Thompson, who has for the past few months been pitching for Birmingham, will arrive in Atlanta today and will be signed by Billy Smith to round out the local hurling staff, if terms can be agreed on.

Thompson has been pitching hard-luck ball for Birmingham, losing almost all of his games by a bad break, and a change of scenery will probably do him good. He has lots of smoke and good stuff, and with an iron band to control it he will make a good pitcher. His release by Birmingham will probably help to make him more manageable.

While at the University of Georgia Thompson set the S. I. A. A. afire, and after leaving there he signed with New York, he was released by New York to Brockton, Mass., where he completed the last season, winning a large per cent of his games. This year he was signed by Birmingham, and has been going bad all season. Birmingham has turned him back to New York, and it is rumored that Thompson is now a free agent, and will probably sign with Atlanta.

Journal Gets Away

The Atlanta Journal defeated the L. W. Rogers team Wednesday in one of the prettiest ten-inning games played in the Grocery and Butchers' league by the score of 9 to 8. The winning run was scored by Simmons after a hard smash by Stewart through third base for a safety. The feature of the game was the pitching of Stallings, he having his opponents at his mercy at all times. The score:

Old Track Closed

SALT LAKE CITY, July 7.—The Salt Palace bicycle track, which has been running since 1899, was closed last night, after the riders refused to make an appearance, and no attempt will be made to reopen the resort. The Salt Palace track has been in operation longer than any other bicycle track in the country, and many world's records have been made there. The management refused the riders' demand for increased pay.

Whist League Opens

CHICAGO, July 7.—More than a hundred expert players from all over the continent are expected to take part in the twenty-third congress of the American Whist league, which opened here today.

The games will begin this afternoon, and sessions will be held during the afternoons and evenings, ending Thursday. Some of the best local players will not be able to compete on account of the morning games.

Cy Falkenberg, having won ten straight games, is now headed the other way, and has compiled a losing streak of four since his first defeat.

Offer Fortune In Big Races

CLEVELAND, July 7.—The first of the 1913-3 Grand circuit meetings in which the kings of the harness horse world will contest begins at North Randall track Monday.

The trotters and pacers will trave to Pittsburg, Buffalo, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Detroit, Salem, N. H., New York City, Hartford, Syracuse, Columbus and Lexington a swing of over 2,000 miles.

While only one, perhaps, of the local meeting's races, the Tavern 'steak' for three-year-olds, may be termed a "classic," the opportunity for judging the early form of the horses make this meeting of supreme interest to turfmen.

Nearly all of the horses which have made for themselves a name on the Grand circuit, and many being brought out this year, are now quartered at the North Randall track.

Almost ideal racing conditions for the past few weeks has given trainers an opportunity to prepare their protegs for the season. Braden Direct, the Denver pacer, is likely to be cast out in the opening meeting by a strained tendon.

Five stake races, eight class races, the three-year-old sweepstakes and the pacing and trotting championship, sweepstakes make up the program for the meeting here. The $2500 Edwards, 2:12 pace; the $5,000 Ohio, 2:10 trot, and the $5,000 Tavern 'steak,' 2:14 trot, are the richest purses. For the sweepstake $1,000 is added for each race. The fields in the class races are offered $1,200 purses.

On Monday, Uhlan, the world's champion trotter, will endeavor to lower the world's record of a mile in 2 minutes to Wagon, held by himself and Lou Dillon.

MACKMEN ALWAYS PLAY STRONG; GIANTS MADE HISTORY LAST WEEK

Washington Made Good Showing—Drop of Phillies Was Unexpected

NEW YORK, July 7.—The outstanding feature of the baseball work just ended was the rise of the New York club to leadership in the National league race. The seven day period, with its heavy schedule including the Fourth's double-headers, was a history-making one in many respects. Coincident with the upward leap of the Giants came the fall of the Philadelphias, who dropped from first position for the first time since early in the season, and of the Brooklyns, whose pennant aspirations met a serious setback through drubbings by Boston and New York.

Chicago came up with a rush. The Giant charge, however, stands out as perhaps the most significant happening of the baseball year so far. Their week's record of seven games won and none lost, rounded out an unbroken string of eleven straights. They have won twenty-six out of their last thirty-two. Philadelphia's pitching staff is showing the predicted effect of the strain of keeping the clubs at the top with Alexander and Seaton as the only really dependable members.

The story of the American league is almost the same from one week to another. Some weeks the Athletics play excellent ball and the next the quality is super-excellent.

Washington and Boston had one of the most interesting series of the week, the Senators coming out decisively on the long end with four straights.

Chicago and Cleveland held each other's pace. St. Louis and Detroit lost ground. The New York's had a poor week of it.

Reports from Pittsburg confirm to a great extent the fears that Wagner is about through playing as a regular. There seems danger also that Ty Cobb's injuries are more serious than was thought.

Waldorf, a pitcher late of Atlanta, has been signed by Harry Mathews for the Newport News misfits, and he broke into the game Tuesday with a win from Portsmouth. He held the Truckers to six hits, while he was getting excellent support from the team behind him.

RAW OF FIGURES

Hard-hitting is not what always wins ball games. You can take a glance at the club batting averages and tell this without the aid of any of the wise guys.

Among the Southern league clubs this season one of the most remarkable features of play has been the phenomenal hitting of the Atlanta team and yet the Crack-ers do not lead the percentage table when it comes to games won to date. Perhaps no team in the history of league has been able to pound the ball as consistently as the team bunched by Billy Smith, but the hits do not seem able to bring over the counters with any regularity. Too many of them are thrown in the waste basket.

At fielding the Cracker club has been a bit shady but right now is picking up admirably. Nashville has proven the most consistent hit chasing outfit and tops the league in fielding. Only 125 errors each have been made since Nashville and Chattanooga, but as the York have participated in a few more games than the Lookouts the Schwartz outfit have a chance of making their misplays count for less, which goes to give them a two-point advantage over their rivals.

Atlanta has proven a bit leary all the route when it comes to the fielding end of the game. The tribe has made 129 errors, which is bettered only by the Mobile, Montgomery and New Orleans clubs, and the team ranks next to last at fielding the pill. At that, however, the team is not so many points back of the leaders and a spurt of good work will give Bill Smith and his men a cleaner slate.

B'ham	2533	289	553	86	.218

In one department of play the Crackers are far back of all rivals save Chattanooga and Nashville and that is at base stealing. The Crackers have swiped just 75 bases in as many games while Chattanooga has pilfered 51 bases in 74 games and Nashville 68 in 76 battles. This work is way below par and needs improvement if the clubs intend to keep right in the thick of the fight.

To make a creditable showing and be in the race for the flag a club must do consistent work. It won't do to have a classy hitting team which is poor at base running or at fielding. You have got to have good work in all departments and right here is where Mobile got the jump on the other clubs and has been in the running from the jump. Mike Finn started out with good hitting, crack hurling, well timed fielding and excellent base running.

With this story you will find a table showing just how each of the clubs have made their hits count for runs, how they have stolen bases and the fielding averages. From this you can see what teams are playing jam-up ball.

Again Chicago Wins

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, July 7.—G. Cook, of the Chicago Athletic association, won the pentathlon here, the concluding feature of the eight days of international athletic games. Cook won with nine points. F. W. Kelly, of the University of Southern California, was disqualified with F. M. Peloste, of the C. A. A., for failing to finish the 1,500-metre run. Kelly protested that he was crossed by Peloste in a manner which deprived him of all chance to defeat Cook in the 1,500-metre, the final event.

Cook was first in every event except the javlin throw, which he finished fifth.

CHANGES ARE COMING FAST IN SOUTH ATLANTIC RACE

That the contest for possession of the 1913 South Atlantic league pennant is still anybody's race, was witnessed by a remarkable shiftin gof respective club standings during the past week. Columbus and Savannah, tied a week ago for third honors, climbed into a tie for premier position, while Charleston, leading at the conclusion of play week before last, and Jacksonville, standing second, fell to fifth and fourth places, respectively.

Savannah's spurt toward the top of the percentage column was perhaps the feature of the week. The winners of first honors for the first half of the season started the second lap with one indifferent work, and at the end of each before last had to their credit only an even break. Hard hitting was responsible for victories in five of the seven games played last week. This record was equalled, however, by Columbus which aweek ago also stood at the .500 mark.

Macon, by virtue of good all round play, bettered its percentage from .222 to .600, and went from fifth to third place. Albany's losing streak continued, but one victory, the first of the second half of the season, being scored during the week.

Balloon Race Close; Make No Decision

KANSAS CITY, July 7.—Five or six days will elapse before the Aero Club of America announces in New York the official winner of the national balloon race that started from here Friday and ended in eastern Michigan. The Aero Club of America, the governing body of ballooning in this country, must examine the barographs of the various balloons in which the pilots have sealed and forwarded to New York. The exact distances covered by each balloon after it has been computed by aeronautical maps of the Aero club. The fact that the nearest official measurements, made on the Goodyear balloon last night, shows only nine and one-half miles separating the Goodyear balloon of Akron, O., which is accorded first place.

Bryon Nock, who is heralded as a former Dickinson college star, has agreed with the Norfolk outfit for a trial on the knoll. Another new Tar, a pitcher by the name Hine, who played previously this season with Scranton, is in the New York State league.

THE SPORTLIGHT
BY GRANTLAND RICE

A TIP TO THE FLOCK.

Did you ever have the feeling that you were all-in, down and out?
As of mud upon your skylight—or your brain pan had the gout?
When you sauntered to your office in a semi-hearted way
And earned about one-seventh of your wage or daily pay?
When your energy had left you and your dizzy dome would throb
As you spent the day in yawning or four-flushing on your job?
Well—you have, as well you know it, so while out among the crowd
In the grandstand or the bleachers shouting curses long and loud,
At some boot or costly bobble—let the old dope trickle through
That perhaps the second baseman has his little off-day too.

While sparring with the cash book or the ledger in your den,
Don't you feel a brainstorm blowing in your noodle now and then?
When the numbers dance around you till you're ripping, raving mad
That the pop-eyed, peevish figures of the column fail to add?
When your orbs are on the porcine and the harder that you look
All the more the figures jumble on the pages of the book?
It's a cinch you have, G. Reader, so before you seek the gore
Of some indicator wielder whose decision blocked a score,
Stop and figure for a second—let the old dope trickle through
That the umpire is entitled to the little off-day too.

England is lavish in her praise of McLoughlin, the American Polo team, etc. But what the deuce can you say about a cove what has knocked your block off? If you pan him, you double knock your own game. It's only through the boost that you can leave an opening.

As a matter of fact, though, England has been fair enough in her comment. Possibly just a trifle bit fairer than America would be under the same conditions. We hate to lose over here even more than England does, and we show it even plainer.

OH, YES.

In the midst of our merriment it is just as well to remember that the names of the citizens who trimmed our crack golfers were Jean Goeslat and Pierre La Fitte. To be upset by a brace of monickers like that brings the general average back several furlongs.

THE FINAL REJOINDER.

Frank Leroy Chance now has one final word in prophecy to utter. "You can say for me," he remarked to these dispatches today, "that with my sort of luck we expect to finish the season. We may not finish in the percentage column but that has nothing to do with the argument. As for next year"—but at this point some one dropped a lemonade glass on the concrete floor and he hustled around to see whether a certain pitcher on his payroll hadn't been struck on the arm.

Griff and his Senators have been coming fast of late, but the only way to catch Mack's team is to start the other way around the world and meet them coming on.

We wonder if Mr. Kipling had just finished sitting through a July double-header when he penned this:

THE WEATHER.

"No hope, no change. The clouds have shut us in,
And through the cloud the sullen Sun strikes down
Full on the bosom of the tortured town.
While Night falls, heavy as remembered sin
That will not suffer sleep or thought of ease;
And, hour after hour, the dry-eyes Moon in spite
Glares through the haze and mocks with waxe light
The torment of the uncomplaining trees;
Far off, the Thunder bellows her despair
To echoing Earth, thrice-parched; the lightnings fly
In vain; No help the heaped up clouds afford
But wearier weight of burdened, burning air
What truce with dawn? Look, from an aching sky
Day stalks, a tyrant with a flaming sword."

"Eddie Collins," Bender informed us recently, "is playing better ball than he ever played in his life." Another reason why the Phillies are not committing suicide over their pennant slump.

AUSTRIAN CRICKET TEAM WILL PLAY AMERICAN CLUBS

NEW YORK, July 7.—International cricket will be one of the most pronounced features of the 1913 cricket season in the metropolitan districts. The visit of the famous Australian team, which is to play the All-New York eleven on August 1 and 2 at Livingston, S. I., will be the crowning feature, but the visit of the Canadian team, representing the Montreal A. A. will not be overlooked. The Canadians will play a series of games, the first on July 3, at Manor field, with the New York Veteran cricketers, the second on July 4, with the All-Staten Island team, and the third on July 5, with the Staten Island Cricket club. On September 8 and 10 an eleven representing all four of the Staten Island clubs will play a team from the famous Incogniti Cricket club, of London, England, composed of the most famous gentlemen players that all England can produce. It is expected that Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, K. C. M. G., the British ambassador, who is a well-known cricketer, and who since his arrival here has joined the Capitol Cricket club of Washington, D. C., will attend the two games.

The Incogniti Cricket club, of London, is just fifty-two years old. Its playing colors are mauve, black and yellow, and its motto is "Incognitti." Incognitis." Since it was organized, the club has played matches against 300 clubs, a grand total of 1,976 games, of which 703 were won, 635 were lost, 1 tied and 632 drawn.

Interstate and interclub cricket are also strongly featured. The German-town Colts come here on July 8 and the All-Philadelphia Colts on July 24. The Quaker teams playing the New York Veteran Cricketers' association games at Manor field, West New Brighton, Staten Island. These two great games are ante-dated, however, by the visit of the Philadelphia veterans, who play the New York veterans on June 19 at Livingston, Staten Island, on the grounds of the Staten Island Cricket club. On August 30 the Schenectady Cricket club plays the Richmond County Cricket club, and on September 2 the up-Staters play the New York Veteran Cricketers' association team at Manor field, meanwhile playing a match on September 1 with the Staten Island Cricket club on its grounds at Livingston, Staten Island.

The New York Veteran Cricketers' association members will sail for Bermuda on August 9, where on August 12 and 13 they will play a team representing the British army and on August 14 and 15 the Hamilton Cricket club eleven.

Add to the cosmopolitan crew of players enrolled under the banner of Hughey Jennings the names of infielders Pipp and Partenheimer.

The fact that fully 600 fans attended the Cardinal games nowadays would tend to prove that Mrs. Britton is very generous with her passes.

Trucks Climb Hills

"Cincinnati, with its steep hills, uneven, coble-paved streets and badly laid car tracks, presents one of the most difficult problems as yet encountered in Motor Truck service," said Mr. S. V. Norton, Manager of the Truck Tire department of the B. F. Goodrich company. "The demands of traffic impose a severe strain on motor truck and motor tire alike and the test of the Cincinnati streets is considered a most exacting trial of tire efficiency. A recent census of 121 cars representing seven leading makes of trucks and including practically every heavy duty truck in service in the city, disclosed the fact that seventy-five of them were equipped with Goodrich wireless tires, as against forty-six over all other makes.

"This is a total of 62 per cent of all the trucks in service in the city; fifty of the eighty-seven Packard trucks in service are using Goodrich tire equipment. Ninety per cent of the Pierce-Arrow and Universal trucks are running on Goodrich wireless tires—three out of four Walker Electrics use them, while two-thirds of the White truck and just one-half of the Peerless and Alco cars are equipped with them. Our closest competitor equips but twenty-one trucks and sixteen of these are used on one make.

EVEN M'GRAW SOMETIMES MISTAKES PLAYERS' ABILITY

It is seldom that a young baseball player banished to the minors by John J. McGraw manages to find his way back to the big leagues with another club. Few players have been lost into the majors who could say that they were once turned loose by the clever leader of the Giants. This spring, however, no fewer than five youngsters who were turned loose by the New York leader, have won permanent berths with other clubs in the major leagues.

Dick Rudolph, now with the Boston Braves, belonged to the Giants in the fall of 1910, and the following spring George Pierce, the southpaw twirler with the Chicago Cubs, went south with McGraw's clan in the spring of 1912. Beny Meyer, the outfielder now with the Brooklyn Superbas, was given a trial by the leader of the Giants in the spring of 1908. Jack Johnston, an outfielder with the St. Louis Browns, went to Marlin with the Giants in the spring of both 1911 and 1912, and Hugh High, of the Detroit Tigers, also an outer gardener, went on the New York roster in the winter of 1911.

Rudolph, the twirler from whom George Stallings expects much aid in reconstructing the Boston club, came to the Giants in the fall of 1910 from the Toronto club of the International league. He pitched a few games for the Giants that fall and went south with the team in the spring, but was sent back to Toronto shortly after the start of the championship season. He lingered with the Maple Leafs a couple of seasons, during which time several major league teams tried to bring him back to the majors, but the Toronto club refused to part with him.

This spring, however, Rudolph decided that if he had to stay in the minors most of his entire career he would rather quit the game. A few days after the start of the International league season he carried out his threat and quit the Toronto club. Realizing that he was in earnest, the owner of the Maple Leafs sold him to the a pitcher, and a large cash consideration. He has done well with the Boston Braves for "Buster" Brown tion. He has done well with the short stay in Boston.

Pierce, the young southpaw twirler with the Chicago Cubs, joined the Giants in the spring of 1912. He had gained a fair record while pitching in the International league the previous year, but lacked control, and when McGraw asked for waivers on him the Cubs put in a claim and secured him. He did not linger long with the Cubs. He was sent to the Scranton club of the New York State league, where he made a splendid record and was repurchased by the Cubs in the fall. He has done nothing wonderful, with them as yet, but being the only left-hander on the staff, with the exception of the veteran Leifield, he is certain of being retained.

Benny Meyer was secured by the Brooklyn club last winter from Toronto in exchange for Hub Northern. He was expected to win a regular berth in the Brooklyn outfield, but his poor fielding cost him the job in right field.

Johnston of the Browns was with the Giants in the spring of 1911, but was sent to the minors for more seasoning, and came back to the club in the spring of 1912. Though advised by Wilbert Robinson to hold Johnston, McGraw could not make room for him, and he was sent to Toronto. He could not even hold his place in the International league and was sent in turn to Montgomery, in the Southern association. There he burned up the circuit and was drafted by the Browns in the fall. He made good immediately and won a regular berth in the outfield of the St. Louis team. He is a fine fielder, and good thrower, fast on the bases and a fair batsman.

Hugh Hige, of the Detroit Tigers, never wore the colors of the New York club but was the property of the team for a couple of months. He was drafted from Hartford of the Eastern association in the fall of 1911 and was returned to that club a few weeks before the training season of 1912, never reporting to the Giants. He is being carried by the Tigers as utility outfielder, being unable to win a regular berth against such strong competition as Cobb, Crawford and Veach. He is still a youngster, however, and Jennings believes that there is a bright future in store for him.

Chief's Auto at Its First Fire

Recently the city council of Alameda, Cal., decided on the purchase of an automobile to make their fire department more effective. Bids were received from a number of well known motor car agencies in that section of the country.

The council decided on the purchase of a Paige "36," regardless of the fact that their bid was full list price, plus freight.

Several of the competing agencies endeavored to get out an injunction to restrain the council from the purchase of the Paige, as they had underbid the Paige car by several hundred dollars. The council answered their objections by stating that they had selected the Paige car on its merits, and had not allowed the sum of several hundred dollars to interfere with their selection of a good car.

Watson's Horse Wins Rich French Race

PARIS, July 7.—The Prix Du President De La Republique was run at Maisons-Laffite Sunday and won by J. C. Watson's Chestnut colt Predicateur. Vicomte D'Harcourt's Ecouen was second, and the same owner's Amadou third. The race was at one mile, four and one-half furlongs, and was valued this year at $20,500. Predicateur was 24 to 10 in the betting. Ecouen 28 to 10 and Amadou 2 to 10.

Nine horses went to the post, including Bruleur, winner of the Grand Prix de Paris.

RENEWED BEAR PRESSURE CAUSED BREAK IN COTTON

Market in New York Closed 8 to 11 Points Down from Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 7.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 12 points in August and unchanged to 2 points higher on othermonths. Liverpool and local trade interests were moderate buyers of August on the call, but there was some continental selling, while scattering local pressure was presented by the favorable average of crop and weather news, and the list soon eased off, with prices 2 or 3 points below Thursday's close before the end of the first half hour. The continued conflict in the Balkans and favorable weather reports appeared to be offsetting the firm technical position of the near months.

The market continued quiet late in the forenoon with prices at midday 2 to 8 points under the closing figures of Thursday.

The market eased off under scattered southern and Wall street selling, which was supported by favorable crop reports and the Pittsburg bank failure, and prices at noon 8 to 11 points lower early in the last hour.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, July 7.—Cotton futures rallis advanced 1 point up on the near months and 7 to 8 points off on the distant. Liverpool prices favored a decline in this market but the old crops were already in limited offerings. There was more new crop cotton for sale and prices fell off under it. The weather was a bear against new crop prices. Little rain was reported in the belt and crop accounts were encouraging, noting rapid growth. Prices at the end of the first half hour of business prices stood 4 to 9 points under last Thursday's close.

The opening session was quiet with prices showing a tendency to sag under good crop accounts and the growing acceptance of the Balkan situation, which the cotton trade was inclined to think would tend to have an unfavorable effect on the money market. It was pointed out that the time is fast approaching when attention must be paid to the growing needs of the cotton belt for the purchase of moving crop in the way of ginning. At present most active months were ten points under last week's close. This was the lowest level of the morning.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS

Logan & Bryan: We feel that lower range of values will ensue, although we would not follow the bear movement.

A. Nordon & Co.: We continue to feel that a better period for the market will be to buy on such breaks as we had Thursday.

Moore & Rothschild & Co.: We continue to advise purchases of cotton on all present levels.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 7.—Cotton seed products, prime basis: Oil, 7.03@7.04; meal, $29.25 @29.50; hulls, 2@3.

ESTIMATED COTTON RECEIPTS

New Orleans expects tomorrow 1,200 to 1,700 bales, against 1196 bales last year.

COMMERCIAL-APPEALS CROP REPORT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 7.—The Commercial-Appeal weekly review says that the past week was the most favorable of the season on the cotton crop. At least the crop made better progress than during any week of the season this year under the stimulus of good rains, plenty of sunshine and warm days and nights the plant made splendid growth, and while there is much replanting it is not quite done during the week. The plant is strong and stalky, beginning to branch out, and is blooming and fruiting fairly.

Rains fell in sections all over the belt during the week, and were more frequent and more nearly general in Texas and Oklahoma, where generally the entire area of both states received good rains. In the central valley the drouth was relieved, except in a few scattered localities that comprise a very small total area. In the east no great need of moisture had been felt, but rains fell at the end of the week.

The high state of cultivation that has characterized the crop from the start was in no way abated during the week. Fields are almost universally clean and thin of soil probably is more nearly perfect now than ever known. This feature of the crop places the plant in the best shape to withstand another drouth or arm with the least possible damage.

There is still complaint of the boll weevil in infested districts. They are very numerous in sections of Mississipi and Louisana, but the damage to date is hardly worth mentioning. Farmers are continuing a relentless war against the pest and in some sections they seem to have won their fight.

SNOW'S CROP REPORT.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Snow's crop report for the condition of corn, 88.5, against 85.8 last year. Acreage 108,000,000, or 1 per cent increase. Crop indicated on basis July par for condition, 2,904,000,000 bushels against a similar indication of 2,811,000,000 last year. If present condition should be maintained until harvest, it would forecast a crop of 3,147,000,000 bushels, against 3,125,000,000 last year. Winter wheat condition 81, a decline of four points since the June 1st report, and indicates a crop of about 487,000,000 bushels on estimate of acreage and about 480,000,000 on the government estimate. Loss mainly in Kansas. Spring wheat condition drops from 91 to 71.8, mainly as a result of frosts in South Dakota. On the basis of July par of condition this indicates crop about 230,000,000 bushels, against an indicated crop similarly figured a year ago of 271,000,000 bushels. If present condition maintained until harvest it would forecast a crop of 717,000,000 bushels, against 839,000,000 final yield last year. This makes a July indication total crop, winter 710,000,000 bushels, against 620,000,000 million last July and if present conditions maintained until harvest, an indication for 731,000,000 bushels against a final estimate last year of 730,000,000 bushels. Condition of oats 75.8, against 85 last month. On the basis of July par for condition this indicates 1bs Spows acreage, crop of 983,000,000 bushels corn, government acreage 1,023,000,000 bushels. Last year the July 1st government indication was 1,123,900 bushels estimate was raised to 1,418,000 bushels.

Arkansas, Oklahoma and West Texas—Tonight and Tuesday generally fair.

East Texas—Tonight and Tuesday generally fair; light variable winds on the coast.

Tennessee—Tonight fair; Monday and Tuesday, Mississippi—Fair tonight and Tuesday.

Georgia and Alabama—Fair tonight and Tuesday.

Kentucky—Local thunder showers tonight or Tuesday; probably fair Tuesday.

Memphis—Crop news is favorable and weather over the belt is generally fair. Rains fell over the river and none in Texas and Oklahoma, but in absence of appreciable precipitation sunshine continues. Sentiment is bearish, but talent is afraid to sell it with summer months in which to cover. Trade is unsettled with Balkan affairs also killing off business.—Miller & Cotter.

San Antonio says: We believe with all the rain we need for cotton and would like to see it stay dry until November.

STOCK GOSSIP

Dow-Jones summary: Result of strike vote among conductors and trainmen of eastern railroads was unexpectedly favorable. Settlement of Balkan allies results in heavy loss of life. Democratic caucus of tariff today. American stocks in London easy, influenced by this. Twelve industrials declined .01. Twenty active rails advanced .01.

Financial Bureau says: Would buy the standards and attractively conservatively on fair opportunities. Information Atlanta favor a trading position.

Gradley says may show a reactionary tendency on account of the European situation. The prospect of a big railroad strike and a poor bank statement. Would not expect much advance to carry prices very far from this level and would accumulate on reactions. Favor a trading position.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET UNDER HEAVY PRESSURE

Union Pacific, Reading, Steel, Lehigh Valley, Anaconda and Can Led Decline

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 7.—The lower range of American stocks in London was reflected at the opening here today in general declines. Losses were small, however, except in the case of Northern Pacific, which dropped 2½, and Canadian Pacific, which receded 1. Reading's heavy seller of Steel but the price fell only a small fraction from the previous close.

Bear pressure relaxed and the slight losses sustained at the posing were made up. The movement to ease rates when $3,000,000 gold was taken for Paris, and prices yielded again.

The scope of the selling widened and rates dropped sharply. Steel, the coppers and coalers became imbued with the weakness of the Harriman stocks.

The market adhered to its recent downward tendency through the morning. News influences that were brought to bear were unfavorable, and trading was too dull to reflect any marked change in the war cloud. The imposition of a call of only medium quality and in only ordinary form, the suspension of two weak gas companies and one weak brokerage house were among the unfavorable killers, and while the prices have ranged lower, they simply show the reaction that of the beef coming three weeks ago. The demand has been light for the past several days, which together with the heavy selling has carried decreased the market and values are probably at the lowest point. Selling of medium and a half lower on common grades than a week ago.

Tennessee sheep and lambs are plentiful and the extreme prices of two weeks ago have been lowered by about 1c pr pound.

Hog supply about equal to the demand. The yards are kept cleaned up form day to day. Several loads of extra choice packers were among the weeks receipts and brought top prices. Market steady.

THE WEATHER

Forecast till 7 p. m. today:

Atlanta and vicinity: Fair tonight and Tuesday.

Georgia and Alabama: Fair tonight and Tuesday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The maximum temperature at Atlanta on Sunday was 94 degrees. High temperature also continued at other points in Georgia. Atla., registered an unusually high degrees even for that point, namely, 104 degrees. Also at Brunswick City and Birmingham recorded 100 degrees.

An area of moderately high atmospheric pressure occupies the central valley States, and clear skies prevail generally throughout the cotton belt. During the past 24 hours rains in places near the central gulf and along the Atlantic coast, but elsewhere in the south the scattered points in the extreme northwest. The largest amounts were Nassau, 1.76 inches, and Jackson City, 1.14.

Low pressure areas exist over the Nova Scotia district and in the Canadian Northwest.

Generally fair weather is indicated for Georgia.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Canning Fruit and Vegetables

DURING the next two months every one who has a family should save by canning as much fruit as they possibly can. Very often a surplus amount of fruit or vegetables will accumulate on the everage premises that can be utilized by canning and if people would pay more attention to these matters, while they have the material it would mean the saving of thousands of dollars during the winter months, and at a time when they cannot be had, for instance when the markets are low or when it is not convenient to market, the surplus fruits and vegetables can be used that are produced on the average farm.

The house wife and children can, with a few minutes work each day, save this surplus, either by canning or preserving by some method this. food that can always be found useful during the winter months. When a person gets in the habit of looking around each day and seeing what they can save, it is surprising how natural it will come and how easily it can be done to put up a few cans of tomatoes, beans, berries, a small lot of some kind, that often goes to waste by not taking care of this when it is ready. It does not look like much for one day's work, but when it is done day after day it is very gratifying to the housewife to find at the end of the season she has accumulated a nice pantry full of different kinds of fruits and vegetables which would go to waste if a little extra effort was not used in this great saving.

During the winter months and all during the year, it is far better to have these things at home for immediate use rather than having to spend money for them, and very often do without, or buy something that would cost several times as much at the market for table use with plenty of nice canned peaches or berries in case of emergency. They come in nicely for dessert, and often save embarrassment and add to the pleasures and comforts of the housewife to have these things at most all times.

No one who has never tried this cannot realize how much benefit and how much saving it is to them unless they have had to do without. As nature has given us this year a fairly good fruit and berry crop we should appreciate it and save in cans just as much as we possibly can. It not only helps to keep down the daily average expenses but is wholesome and healthful for the children and grown people as well. With a little extra effort every day it is surprising at the end of the season how much good food can be saved in cans by nearly every family or housekeeper.

It is also a good idea for every one who has a garden this year to plant some extra tomatoes, or extra beans, to be used for canning purposes. No one can appreciate this fact unless they have seen what others have done, and how much can really be made by this work. I have had the pleasure recently of seeing several large lots of canned tomatoes and beans and fruits that have already been saved and canned, and it is a pleasure to look upon this magnificent food and to see how easy it can be made valuable by a small amount of work, and as a rule children enjoy helping to put up these products. If this saving was practiced more than what it is by the average family, it would not only be educating the children to save and accumulate but it would help keep down the expense of living in hundreds of homes.

The canning clubs over the state of Georgia are doing a great work in this respect but there are not half enough of these, and lots of waste could be conserved into cash through these canning clubs, if more attention was paid to it.

I often think of a young lady in Alabama, who during the past year put up off of a small piece of ground several hundred dollars worth of tomatoes. This could be done by hundreds of children and the time is coming when it must be done. We are blessed with a great country here which produces food in abundance but little do we appreciate this. And but little do we realize what it would be worth in dollars and cents a. the end of the year to every family who would pay more attention to the opportunities we have of canning all kinds of fruits and vegetables. The main thing is to form a habit for doing this work and then stick to it.

Too much money is being sent away from our state every year for food products that can be raised at our door. The average farmer is a slave to cotton and corn and but little do they think or anything else, but if they would divide up their views and efforts more than they do and a good vegetable garden they would be surprised at the end of the year how much revenue can be derived from the small garden space.

The cost of living for the average family would be practically insignificant if they would practice canning more largely than it is done at the present, and while this is being done it is an education to the children that is worth more to them in time to come than the dollars and cents that we are saving each year by this work.

It has been so easy to grow out of doors nearly all of the time throughout the South something we not until now have not given this feature the thought that we should, but things have changed, and to have a variety of fruits and vegetables out of season such that can be preserved with canning is something that we should pay more attention to, and as during the next two months is the proper time to do this work it should not be neglected.

Yours very truly.

Number of Deeds, Bonds for Title and Mortgages for First Six Months of 1913 Is Ahead of the Corresponding Period in 1912—Inquiries Continue Good, and Several Agencies Working on Trades Soon to Be Announced

For the first six months of 1913, the number of deeds, bonds for title and mortgages exceeded the numoer for the corresponding period last year by 331. These figures were announced Monday by J. W. Mason, of the Atlanta Title Guarantee company.

For this year the number was 9,421, against 9,040 for the same period in 1912.

The gain in nine years has been over 100 per cent, for in 1904 the number of recorded papers was 4,380. There has been a gain every year.

The aggregate value of the papers recorded so far this year is behind last year by about $2,000,000, but the value of mortgages paid is far ahead.

This indicates that the debt of the trading public has been pretty well reduced, and that other transactions have fallen off little, if any. In fact, agencies which heretofore have specialized in small business in many instances have had better results this year than last.

There is a considerable demand just now for homes, and agencies that follow this line of business are being kept pretty busy.

MARKET OUTLOOK.

Monday's news suffered from the Fourth of July holiday last Friday, followed by the usual Saturday half holiday, and as a result there were no announcements and but few transfers were recorded.

Inquiries continue good, however, and several agencies are working on transactions which should come in for announcement shortly. One of these is an important central lease, which has been hanging fire for some time.

Generally speaking, conditions are better now than usual in the midsummer season, with prospects bright for an unusual fall business. Building is keeping up fairly well, and the year will show a good average although it is not likely to be a repetition of last year's brilliant showing.

Husband Found; Fortune Teller's Tale Is Untrue

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., July 7.—Mrs. Will Grady, bride of three months, whose husband disappeared about a fortnight ago and who was led by the words of a fortune teller to believe he had been hanged by three men, yesterday received a letter from her husband. The letter came from Alabama and explained the cause of his absence.

Mrs. Grady hastened here to stop officers from proceeding in the matter, believing they had been impressed by the soothsayer's words repeated to them and were searching for the body of Mr. Grady. The search, however, had not been begun, the officers refusing to proceed on the unsupported testimony of the fortune teller.

Harken, Tourists! St. Petersburg, Fla., Has Tabooed Booze

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., July 7.—Dry-throated tourists here next winter will have to motor across the bay to Tampa if they wish to quench a thirst for spirituous beverages, for St. Petersburg has gone "dry."

Saturday night saw the last legal salt of liquor in the new county of Pinellas and the city of St. Petersburg and today all of the saloons here are closed and will remain so for two years at least, if not for all time, because the voters under the state local option law have willed it so.

St. Petersburg formerly was in Hillsboro county, of which Tampa is the county seat and several efforts were made to vote the county "dry" but with no avail for the Tampa vote in each instance outnumbered the vote of the smaller cities.

Pinellas county was cut off from Hillsboro two years ago and the voters immediately began to seek to settle the question of saloons. As provided in the election all saloons closed Saturday night at 12 o'clock.

The late session of the legislature passed the following restrictions regarding liquor traffic in "dry" counties under which St. Petersburg finds herself governed this morning:

1. No personal solicitation by visiting or resident agents for the sale of liquor to be shipped into dry territory from the outside.

2. The sale of liquor at clubs is entirely prohibited, the members of such clubs are permitted only to keep a small amount of liquor in their private lockers on the same principle they may keep a supply in their homes.

3. Authorities may search premises where liquor in quantities is thought to be kept and if found same may be confiscated.

4. The shipment of liquors from a wet county into a dry county is prohibited except in small quantities for personal use. This is intended as an effective blow against illegal selling.

5. In the delivery of liquor common carriers must confine themselves to days and hours from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. Sundays not included.

6. All such packages must be plainly labeled with name of sender and address of receiver and contents of packages plainly marked.

Washington Spends First "Dry" Sunday of Its Life

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Washington was actually "dry" yesterday, probably for the first time in its history. It was the first Sunday of the new Jones-Works excise law for the District of Columbia, and its strict provisions were enforced to the letter.

Not even a bona fide registered guest at a hotel could have a drink with a meal. The exclusive clubs could serve nothing. Their officers had been warned that the "locker system" would be construed as a violation of the law. They also were notified that liquors actually bought on Saturday could not be iced and served on Sunday.

So stringent is the new law that the purchase of common alcohol for medicinal or commercial purposes at drug stores are registered in the same way as dangerous poisons.

U. S. RETURNS MACHINE GUN SEIZED IN TEXAS

J. J. Kilpatrick, Georgian, Back From Washington With His Rapid-Fire Rifle

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

GREENSBORO, Ga., July 7.—Obtaining the permission of the United States government for the return of a machine gun and several thousand rounds of ammunition, J. J. Kilpatrick, a native of Greene county, now a resident of western Texas, is returning to his home through the southern states, after visiting the authorities in Washington.

Mr. Kilpatrick is a wealthy land owner in the territory of Texas adjacent to the Mexican border, where the recent disorder has been so prevalent. He bought the machine gun for the protection of his property against the robbing parties who are infesting that country. The government seized the arms and only returned them to him after a visit to Washington.

Talking interestingly of the border situation, Mr. Kilpatrick stated that he believed the United States will finally intervene, or some foreign nation will bring such pressure to bear that Uncle Sam will be forced to patrol the country and restore order, or ignore the Monroe doctrine.

He stated that the people were bankrupt and some means of quieting the disorder must be provided, or the people will have to leave the country.

Mr. Kilpatrick said that Mexico must find a man such as the old Diaz, who would rule the country with an iron hand, as a mild executive similar to the late Madero would meet the fate of an exile.

NAVY'S "FLYING BOATS" ONCE MORE ON WING

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Active work by the "flying boat" squad of the navy has been resumed, and this week is to be a busy one for navy aviators. The flights were discontinued for a time following the death of Lieut. D. Billingsley recently, when he fell from a flying boat to his death in Chesapeake bay, and Lieutenant J. H. Towers was injured. Several flights have been made already, the principal ones by Ensign Godfrey Chevalier and Lieutenant Bernard M. Smith, of the latter on Monday, but serious work will be commenced again today.

Lieut. Towers Taking Vacation at Rome

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROME, Ga., July 7.—Lieutenant John H. Towers, chief of the navy aviation corps, who was seriously injured in a "flying boat" accident at Annapolis recently, arrived here Sunday and is spending three months' leave of absence with his mother, Mrs. W. M. Towers. The young officer is convalescent from the hurts received in a 1,500 feet fall, but will not entirely recover for several weeks.

Confesses to Girl's Slaying; Two Hanged For Identical Deed

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—Arrested for having passed a bad check, Simon P. Heifinstine, in jail here, today startled officials of the sheriff's office with a purported confession, in which he detailed a series of eight murders in Ohio. These include the slaying of Pearl Bryan, for whose death the medical students, Jackson and Walling, were executed.

Some of the circumstances of the crimes as related by Heifinstine do not coincide with known facts, and county officials were inclined to believe the prisoner was suffering from insanity.

Pearl Bryan was supposed to have been killed in Cincinnati, but Heifinstine asserts that he murdered her in Toledo and then shipped the body to Jackson and Walling in Cincinnati.

AERO-YACHTSMEN IN RACE FOR $1,000 TROPHY

CHICAGO, July 7.—Aero-yachtsmen entered for the flying boat cruise from Chicago to Detroit will compete today in a ten-mile race against time for the efficiency trophy offered by the Aero Club of Illinois and worth $1,000.

The flyers leave Chicago at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow for Michigan City, the first stop on the long run to Detroit. A 125-mile race around Mackinac Island will be held Sunday and the flyers are due in Detroit on July 17.

CLEAN BILL FOR ACCUSED MACON CHURCH MEMBERS

Choirmaster and Ladies' Aid Society Secretary Completely Exonerated

MACON, Ga., July 7.—Complete exoneration by unanimous vote was given by the congregation of the First Christian church of Macon, Sunday, to Mrs. Marvin Lee Lester, secretary of the Ladies' Aid society of the church, and Professor Frank M. Charlton, the church choirmaster. Charges of improper conduct, lodged against them by two matrons of Macon and investigated thoroughly by a committee of elders, were reported by that committee as being utterly without foundation; and the committee recommended the unreserved exoneration that the congregation gave without a dissenting vote.

Action upon the matter came at the close of the morning service, Sunday, when Rev. Leroy M. Anderson, the pastor, declared the congregation to be in deliberative session. Lenoir M. Erwin, United States commissioner, chairman of the investigating committee, presided. The elders of the church were seated upon the platform.

The report of the elders' committee was read by W. H. Roper, a member of that committee. The report discussed the case in minute detail, taking up each phase and dismissing it in turn.

At the conclusion of the report, Elder Roper invited any member of the congregation to discuss the matter, either for or against the committee's report and recommendation.

One woman responded. She was Mrs. T. T. Gibson, a Methodist. Her acquaintance with the choirmaster dated back fifteen years, to a time when both of them resided in Bloomington, Ill.

"In all that time," said she, "I have known him to be nothing but a perfect gentleman."

During the reading of the elders report Prof. Charlton sat in the choir loft directly behind the pastor and in full view of the congregation, and Mrs. Lester sat in one of the front pews of the church. Both retired when the question was put to a vote.

Upon the call for vote to sustain the committee's report, the congregation arose as a body, the exceptions being a few members of other congregations who were attending the service.

Not a single vote was recorded in opposition to the report.

Upon spontaneous call from the pastor, the congregation sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." In his closing prayer the pastor thanked God fervently for the inevitable conquest by truth in all things.

Damage suits are promised to follow the exoneration of Mrs. Lester and Prof. Charlton. New sensations are promised in those suits, which have been placed in the hands of Leland Gates, an attorney of Macon. Mr. Estes will make announcement in a few days.

Following are the findings in full as reported by the elders' committee:

REPORT IN FULL.

"1. The parties accused vigorously deny in detail all the charges, and claim that they were made maliciously and are slanderous.

"2. With reference to the telephone conversation alleged by Mrs. J. W. Jenkins to have taken place on June 5, this being the day on which the alleged incidents occurred, between Mrs. Lester and Mr. Charlton, in which an engagement was made between them for Mr. Charlton to call:

"We believe that the truth or falsity of all the charges largely hinge upon the fact of this conversation having taken place, for if there were no such statement made the visit was exceedingly improbable on the afternoon in question Mrs. Lester entertaining the missionary society in her home.

"One well known lady and her daughter, not members of the Christian church, arrived about noon, and assisted Mrs. Lester in preparing the refreshments, remaining until 2 p. m. She states that Mrs. Lester carried on no such conversation as the one alleged, but that she did call Mrs. Charlton and ask her if Mr. Charlton would meet with the ladies and sing; that Mrs. Charlton called Mr. Charlton to the phone and Mrs. Lester talked to him about this matter for a few minutes.

"This conversation took place before 2 p. m. Mrs. Jenkins places the time of the conversation when the engagement was made at the exact time Mr. Lester had left home for a few minutes to carry one of the ladies home in his buggy from the meeting, the hour being between 5:30 and 6:30 o'clock.

"WILL NOT USE PHONE.

"While Mr. Lester was away on the mission mentioned this lady and her daughter were in Mrs. Lester's presence, and she states that Mrs. Lester did not use the phone. Indeed, she was in her kitchen at the time preparing a lunch to send to a friend. Mrs. Jenkins is on a party phone with Mrs. Lester, and lives diagonally across the street from her, and states that she has been accustomed to listen to Mrs. eLster's telephone conversations.

"We have also learned from disinterested parties that there has been bad feeling existing between Mrs. Jenkins and Mrs. Lester for some time, and the latter would not have used the phone knowing that the conversation would probably be overheard by her enemy. Mr. Charlton was in his studio at the time the conversation was supposed to have taken place, and pupils who were with him at the time state that he did not use the telephone.

"3. Mr. Lester and his wife have been noted among their friends for their devotion to one another, one neighbor stating that his family have always termed them the bride and groom. Mr. Lester rarely leaves home without his wife being with him.

"He states that he has done so only seven times in more than seven years of married life, the night in question he did not know until after 6 o'clock that his presence was desired at the meeting which he attended, and he did not decide to go until nearly 8 o'clock. This fact is attested to by the party who advised him to attend. Mrs. eLster and Mr. Charlton were therefore not cognizant of the fact that he would be away from home.

QUESTION OF IDENTITY.

"4. As to a man having been seen to enter the side gate of the Lester home. The night in question was dark and rainy, the hour was 3 o'clock and there was neither moon nor stars. The alley in question is dark at either end, as there are no lights at either end, and there are fences or buildings practically its entire length. It is about 250 feet across the block and the gate mentioned is midway of the block.

"It is claimed by Mrs. Jenkins and Mrs. Armstrong that they stood in Mrs. Jenkins' yard, in the light of an electric street lamp, across the street from the alley, saw a man enter the alley from the far end, about 200 feet away, walk to the gate in question, hesitate, look around and enter the gate.

"This, then, first developed to Mrs. Lester, then sounded an alarm of burglars and saw the man run out of the gate and down the alley. After the man was gone some of the men of the neighborhood appeared on the scene in response to the alarm, but they were too late to see anything. We have interviewed five of the men and they all state that they saw nothing whatever, with one exception. Rufus Jenkins, which will be specially noted later.

MADE TESTS.

"We have stood on three different nights with different persons and sent men through the alley for the purpose of observing the possibility of the man having been seen as charged. We have found that a man is practically out of sight as soon as he enters the alley from the nearest end, and that he is entirely out of sight long before he reaches the gate mentioned. We made our observations on nights when the moon was in the same relative position as on the night of the fifth of June, but on starlit nights instead of rainy.

"5. As to the statement that the man in question was recognized by Rufus Jenkins, a seventeen-year-old son of Mrs. J. W. Jenkins. This young man states that he was alarmed by the disturbance, and that instead of going through the alley in search of the man, he went instead, to Coleman avenue, a half block away, down Coleman to Johnson avenue, which is the other street on which the alley opens, and saw a man leave the alley and go to Columbus road, down this to Boundary avenue, thence to Bellevue avenue, thence to Tatnall square and start across the square as if going down town.

"He states that his nearest approach to the man was a little less than half a block. That the man carried an umbrella over him while he ran. That he, Jenkins, did not run fast as he was not armed and did not wish to catch the man. That during the chase the man turned and faced him and he recognized him to be Mr. Charlton.

RAN SLOWLY.

"In order for him to have seen the man leave the alley he would have had to run fully a block and a half, while the man being chased ran half a block, after having had the start of him. Jenkins states that he, himself, did not run fast.

"6. With reference to the statement by Mrs. Jenkins and Mrs. Armstrong that they saw Mr. Charlton come along Carling avenue, which is the street on which the Lester home faces, soon near enough the house to observe whether the lights were burning, which is alleged to have been the signal agreed upon in the phone message, then retrace his teps to Coleman avenue, the first intersecting street, and turn up same.

"We have interviewed reputable witnesses, who testify that Mr. Charlton was at another place, some distance away at the time mentioned. The time is placed definitely. Mrs. Jenkins claiming that she looked at both the clock and the calendar and made mental note of the day and the hour.

SLIGHT CIRCUMSTANCE.

"7. We mention the fact as a slight circumstance that we have found that Mr. Charlton did not have an umbrella on the night in question. Two witnesses testify to this, one positively, the other almost so.

"8. With reference to the general character of the accused. We have taken occasion while investigating the specific charges to inquire into the lives of the parties. We have failed to find a single individual who will state that they have observed any questionable actions of either party toward one another or others.

"Mrs. Jenkins herself stated that she believes Mrs. Lester to be a good woman and Mr. Charlton to be a good man and she does not believe that there were ever any improper or immoral relations existing between these two, and that she has never observed anything between them of an incriminating nature. She further stated that she did not originate the story concerning them and requested us to make this known to Mr. and Mrs. Lester.

"9. Mr. Lester expresses implicit confidence in the innocence and chastity of his wife and Mrs. Charlton in that of her husband. Both couples appear to live happily together. Mrs. Charlton and Mrs. Lester are and have been all along the best of friends, and this is also true of their husbands.

CONCLUSION.

"10. Our conclusion is that the parties are innocent of the charges made or others of like nature. We have as much confidence in the integrity and Christian character of both parties as we ever had and this is the first time we have been given occasion to question them.

"11. We recommend that in such as the unfortunate charges and the publicity given to them have not only been exceedingly embarrassing, but of permanent damage to their reputations, as the statement will not be read by all who read and heard the charges, that this congregation not only exonerate them of any wrong doing and express a vote of confidence in them, but that we also stand by them and protect them as far as possible from further criticism, and show to them by our actions that we are one with them in this the greatest trial of their lives, thereby assisting them as much as possible in bearing their burden.

"12. We recommend that this report be published in The Christian Builder and copies for publication be furnished the newspapers, and that they become a part of our church records.

"In conclusion we wish to say that we have endeavored to make our report clear and explicit and as unprejudiced as was possible under the somewhat aggravating circumstances surrounding the case. We have avoided the use of names, except such as had already appeared in the public prints, because such notoriety is not pleasant and because of the further fact that we did not desire to interfere with any suits for slander or libel which may be brought by the parties accused of the wrong doing. If any of the facts which we have stated are challenged, however, we stand ready at any time to give names and produce the evidence which we have in our possession. If anything we have said may be construed unfavorably toward any one, we regret same, but we have stated facts as they have come to our attention. Respectfully submitted.

"DAVID LAMAR" LAWYER IN LOBBY PROBE AGAIN

Edward Lauterbach Denies Saying He Represented Democratic Leader

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Edward Lauterbach, New York lawyer and friend of David Lamar, flatly denied before the senate lobby committee today that he ever had told Lewis Case Ledyard, counsel for J. P. Morgan & Co., that he represented Speaker Clark, Senator Stone and other Democratic leaders in negotiations with "Wall street" over pending legislation.

Lauterbach testified that he did go *to the late J. P. Morgan with the res*olution for investigating the steel corporation, but not for the purpose of "shaking him down," as Lauterbach put it, but solely with the idea that if Mr. Morgan would ask Lamar to stop the resolution, the broken relations between the two men would be restored.

Representatives of woolen and sugar interests also were present. The committee today subpoenaed I. A. Smith, of Georgia, president of the georgia division of the Farmers' union, to testify as to that organization's efforts to affect duties on cotton goods or sugar.

Before Lauterbach's examination went on the committee debated whether his testimony would give him immunity from prosecution if it developed that he and Lamar had violated federal or New York state statutes.

"If there is any question in your mind as to immunity, I waive it absolutely," said Lauterbach.

LAWYER TAKES STAND.

When Lauterbach took the witness chair, Chairman Overman read to him a statement made last week by Lewis Cass Ledyard, a New York lawyer, alleging that at a conference on February 8 Lauterbach had represented himself as coming with authority of Senator Stone and Speaker Clark to make proposals to J. P. Morgan & Co. and *the steel corporation on behalf of Demo*cratic leaders in congress.

Ledyard's statement represented Lauterbach as having said that Representative Henry was to be attorney general; that legislation could be controlled in congress by Speaker Clark and his friends, and that the Democratic leaders wanted the Morgan interests to agree to certain things in return for a cessation of congressional activity against them.

Senator Stone has denied that he had ever had any dealings with Lauterbach, or authorized him to represent himself, Speaker Clark or any one else.

Lauterbach swore he had not told Ledyard he represented Speaker Clark, Senator Stone or any other Democratic leaders. He said, however, he had told Ledyard he felt confident he could stop investigation of the steel corporation without working through Lamar.

TO STOP TRUST PROBE.

Lauterbach said he had told Ledyard he had gone to Washington, had familiarized himself with "the situation," and had become convinced that the Democratic leaders in congress and President Taft did not want activity to go on against the steel corporation.

He admitted further he had told Ledyard he felt confident he could stop the investigation of the steel corporation without working through Mr. Lamar.

"Where did you get your information that the Democratic leaders did not want the steel corporation investigated?" asked Senator Reed.

"*I got it in New York from Mr. La*mar (who he thought received his information from H. B. Martin) after returning from Washington," said the witness.

"Did you see Speaker Clark, Senator Stone, Congressman Palmer or any other Democratic leaders?"

"No."

Mr Lauterbach admitted the statement he made to Ledyard that he had "gone to Washington and familiarized himself with the situation, was an "exaggeration."

"And an exaggeration of the truth is a falsehood, isn't it?" asked Senator Reed.

"Yes. I'll call it that," said the witness.

He said he had never seen President Taft, but that Lamar had told him the Republican administration was opposed to the steel investigation. On this he based his statement to Mr. Ledyard that Taft did not desire the investigation.

Lauterbach said he had censured Lamar for not letting him know of the telephone impersonations. "I told him, 'You have told me what you were doing. You should have let me know about this.' He said that he was come these things to bring to light the conspiracy against me."

"What conspiracy?"

"*The conspiracy of which Mr. Led*yard was the leading factor. He had been working assiduously for two years to defame me, because of my connection with Mr. Lamar. Mr. Lamar said he had used his own methods and had brought this conspiracy to light."

Lauterbach said he then "went over the Union Pacific matter" with Lamar. "I asked him if there was anything about the Union Pacific matter that he tell me. He said he could tell me nothing until he had been on the witness stand at Washington."

Doctors' Opinions About POSTUM
Are best expressed in their own words

Writing under date of May 13, 1913, one physician says:

"From past experience I have become a strong friend of Postum. I am now advising its use over that of coffee altogether, and find that most of those who give Postum a trial become users of it.

"It is, however, sometimes very hard or impossible to get folks to purchase something when they don't know anything about it. I want to throw away money on a chance of liking it.

"Now, it occurs to me these people are not to be criticised for such feelings, but at the same time I am sure many of them would become friends of Postum if they could but have a sample of it placed in their hands.

"If you think this is a good suggestion, and will send me samples from time to time, I will see that they are placed among my patients where they will do the most good, for I believe it is to their interest to drink Postum rather than coffee. Postum is used in our home, but we buy it of our grocer, and we expect to keep right on doing so."

Thousands of coffee drinkers are victims of headache, nervousness, biliousness, heart trouble and indigestion, without knowing the cause.

More and more, physicians are naming coffee as a common cause of these ills. Not every physician, however, finds time to send a sample following his prescription of

INSTANT POSTUM

If your physician recommends that you "stop coffee," or your own distress suggests a change, send your name and address with 2c stamp (for postage) to Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., and a 5-cup tin of the new food-drink Instant Postum—will be mailed immediately. Nothing is so convincing as the happy results of personal experience.
